British Parliament—The Speech of the Mayor of Cork at a Fenian Banquet Discussed and His Removal Urged—The Spanish Cortes—International Conference at Berlin.

(By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.)

GREAT BRITAIN.

LONDON, April 30.—The speech of the Mayor of Cork, at the recent banquet in that city, was the subject of long debates in both Houses of Parliament this evening, the attention of members being called especially to the Mayor's language respecting O'Farrell, who attempted to assassinate Prince Alfred in Sydney, N. S. W., as well as to his reference to the Prince himself. The Tories upbraided the Government with being the indirect cause of the present state of Ireland.

In the House of Commons Mr. Bright thought the present condition of affairs in Ireland to be no cause for panic, but urged that both parties should strive to remedy the land grievance question at this session of Parliament. For himself, he would not remain on the Treasury Bench, if he did not feel that he was honestly and energetically advocating measures which would effect great salutary changes in Ireland. The settlement of the Church question will not stay the present outrages in that portion of the United Kingdom, but it is the first example that any Parliament has ever given that it was willing to do justice to Ireland, and is an earnest of that intention.

Mr. Gladstone followed in support of Mr. Bright. He had always found that Protestant ascendancy in favor of religious establishments was the paramount cause of the mode in which the power of the landlords had been used, and by which the relations of the tenants are vitally affected. He thought Lord Stanley had anticipated too much, in demanding a policy upon the Land question. He feared misapprehension would attract to any representation that might be given now, but it was necessary to avoid the appearance of having suggested measures from fear of panic or upon a momentary occasion. He concluded by saying that the Government was anxious to substitute for the present condition a state of confidence in the country and loyalty to the Crown.

Mr. Gathorne Hardy, Conservative, urged the immediate removal of the Mayor of Cork. He considered that the Government were bound to declare a policy on the Land question, and thus dissipate the unreasonable expectation of Ireland. The subject was then dropped.

GERMANY.

BERLIN, April 30.—The International Conference to promote the care of wounded in time of war, which has been in session in this city for several days, adopted an address to the people of the United States of America. In this document the members of the Conference express regret that no representative from the United States has been present during the proceedings, but the members are convinced that that great and noble nation, one of the foremost in the world, which rendered such great service in the work of humanity, sympathizes deeply with this movement. The address is signed by forty delegates, among them the Turkish Embassador to Prussia. The Conference has ordered copies of the reports of its sittings to be sent to America, with the address.

SPAIN.

MADRID, April 30.—In the Cortes, Cuestas proposed an amendment to the new Constitution, recognizing the Catholic as the only religion of the country. It was rejected.

Edward Thornton, British Minister, has applied to Gov. Palmer, of Illinois, to furnish toher Brittanic Majesty's government all the laws and regulations in force in the State concerning the Texas cattle plague and other contagious diseases affecting animals.

The wife of Dr. Wm. P. Duvall died suddenly yesterday morning at the Borden House, Janesville, Wis., from the effects of poison, but whether administered by herself or some one else is not yet known. Much excitement prevails.

Frank McDonald, belonging in Joliet, committed suicide late last night at the Washington House, on Randolph street. He took poison, but for what reason is not known.

The following order has been issued by Lieut. Gen. Sheridan:

General Orders No. 6. The Quartermaster's Department at Chicago, Ill., will be exclusively subject to the orders of the Commanding Officer and Chief Quartermaster of the Military District and the Assistant Quartermaster in charge will be accounted for only on the returns of these headquarters.

An order has been issued by General Sherman, at Washington, appointing Major and Brevet Lieut. Col. Guido N. Lieber Judge Advocate of the Department of Dakota.

In accordance with the policy of the government, General Sheridan is determined to curtail the expenses of his department as much as practicable. Already several clerks and messengers in his head quarters have been discharged, and other movements looking toward retrenchment may be expected soon.

PHILADELPHIA.

Race Street Skating Rink Burned—Loss $80,000—Naturalization Decision Set Aside--Cuban Meeting.

(By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.)

PHILADELPHIA, April 30.—The mammoth Rink, on Twenty-first and Race streets, was totally destroyed by fire last night. Since the close of the winter it has been used as a velocipede school. The principal entertainment given in the building was the grand ball of the Odd Fellows, on Monday last. The Rink was three hundred by one hundred and fifty feet, and completely covered with sheet iron. The arched roof fell with a tremendous crash. It was owned by a stock company and valued at $150,000; insured for $40,000. The Swedenborgian Church adjoining was in imminent danger.

Chief Justice Thompson, in the Supreme Court, yesterday set aside the famous naturalization decision and the order which was made by Judge Read previous to the Presidential election last fall. Judge Read decided that the September naturalizations were improper and forbade the Prothonotary from making any endorsement of old certificates, or issuing new ones, even when satisfactory proof was given that the originals had been lost. Judge Thompson holds that Judge Read's action was extra-judicial, and of no binding authority. The Democrats claim that over five thousand naturalized citizens were excluded from the polls in consequence of the radical decision.

Johanna Roach and Bridget Brophy, burned by the explosion of a can of coal oil on Wednesday, have died from their injuries.

An immense meeting was held at the Academy of Music to-night to sympathize with the struggling Cubans. The enthusiasm was very great.

CINCINNATI.

Heavy Verdict for the Government—Benzine Seized in Transits.

(By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.)

CINCINNATI, April 30. - In the United States Court, at Covington, to-day, Judge Ballard on the bench, a judgment was rendered against A. W. Darling, of Carrollton, Ky., for $200,000 in favor of the United States. The suit was to recover tax on whisky shipped from Carrollton and consigned to Henry Grotenkemper, Cincinnati. This whisky, instead of going as consigned, was taken to another house and sold as free whisky. The case, in another form, was before the United States Court in this city last fall, and the jury disagreed.

The Local Inspectors last night took one hundred and fifty barrels of benzine off the steamer Louisville for New Orleans. It lies on the landing. If the case is properly reported, the benzine will be forfeited and the boat suffer the pecuniary penalty.

Railway Leased.

(By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.)

READING, Pa., April 30.—At a meeting of the stockholders of the East Pennsylvania Railroad, in this city to-day, the Directors were authorized to declare a stock dividend of one hundred per cent., clear of all taxes, payable to stock holders on the 12th of May. Also to lease the road for nine hundred and ninety-nine years to the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad Company. At a subsequent meeting of Directors proper steps were taken to carry the action of the stockholders into effect. The Reading road will enter into possession of the East Pennsylvania road to-morrow.

Affairs in Texas.

(By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.)

GALVESTON, April 30.—An attempt was made to-day by armed men to break up a quarterly meeting of the Colored Methodist Church at Columbia, Texas, but was promptly stopped by the citizens, who protected the minister and congregation.

A Republican Convention is called to be held at Houston, on the fourth Monday of May, to harmonize, if possible, the two wings of that party and nominate candidates for State officers.

THE CAPITAL.

Revenue Decision—Dispatches from the Minister to Mexico—Pacific Railroad Appointments--Printing Office Changes—The President Will Not Visit the Pacific Coast.

(By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.)

WASHINGTON, April 30, 1869.

THE NEW YORK TAX CASE.

Commissioner Delano has at last decided the tax case, about which the New York brokers have been making such a fight. He holds that any one having a place of business or where credits are opened by deposit or collection of money subject to be paid upon a draft check or order, or where money is loaned on collaterals, must be regarded as a banker and taxed as such upon the capital employed beyond the average amount invested in United States bonds, and also upon the average amount deposited, whether payable on demand or at some future day. That in ascertaining the amount of capital, all money used in the business of banking must be regarded as capital, whether furnished by the firm or borrowed; and it is immaterial for what time loans are made. That loans are frequently charged to furnish reliable capital for banking purposes, and in such cases the average amount borrowed should be ascertained and taxed as capital. That the average amount of deposits, both those upon which interest is paid and upon which none is paid, is taxable. And that the same firm may be engaged in business as bankers and brokers does not release them from liabilities to pay taxes upon their capital and deposits employed in their business as bankers.

THE MEXICAN DISPATCHES.

The statement that Dr. Brink, United States Vice Consul at the City of Mexico, yesterday brought important dispatches from Minister Rosecrans, has excited public curiosity as to their contents. They were delivered to President Grant to-day, and by him transferred to the Secretary of State. Although their precise terms have not yet officially transferred, it as stated in unusually well informed circles that Gen. Rosecrans, who, contrary to former rumors, is on pleasant and friendly terms with the Mexican government, has communicated to our own government his views of the condition of that country, showing the dangers to which it is constantly exposed from domestic disturbance and the pecuniary embarrassment which prevent its national and social improvement. He makes various suggestions and recommends the immediate action of the government in affording to American citizens such guarantees of protection as will encourage them to avail themselves of the opportunity to secure important material interests to the United States and at the same time benefit the Republic of Mexico.

COMPLETION OF PACIFIC RAILROAD.

The President of the Union Pacific Railroad having written the Secretary of the Interior that the road is now finished and the rails of the two roads will probably be joined next week, the latter replied to-day, that it is deemed advisable that the Commissioners designated to examine the completed sections of that road, upon which report has not yet been made, should examine and report upon the road from the thousand mile post to Promontory Summit as soon as the requisite forms are complied with.

PUBLIC DEBT STATEMENT.

The debt statement, which will be promptly issued on the 1st proximo, will show a decrease of about three millions of dollars. The interest on the May 5-20's—twenty-four millions—is not charged up until after the 1st. Nor is this interest, which now appears in the aggregate of the debt every month, deducted from the total until the next statement, at which time the public may look for a large decrease in the debt, not only from this cause but from largely increased receipts of internal revenue.

RAILROAD COMMISSIONERS.

The Secretary of the Interior has been informed by the following named gentlemen of the acceptance of their appointment by the President, under the joint resolution of Congress, approved April 10th, as Commissioners to examine and report upon the condition of the Union Pacific Railroads: Gen. Joseph F. Boyd, of Kentucky, Samuel G. Fellows, of Pennsylvania, Edward F. Winslow, of Iowa, and Hiram Walbridge, of New York.

RESIGNATION.

Hobley Ashton, who last summer temporarily assumed the position of Assistant Attorney General, at the request of Hon. Wm. Evarts, to-day formally resigned it for the purpose of returning to his private legal practice in this city. Walbridge A. Field, of Boston, his successor, will enter upon his duties to-morrow and act as Attorney General during the absence of Mr. Hoar, who left Washington to-night for Massachusetts, to be absent for a week.

APPOINTMENTS.

The following appointments were made by the President: Alfred Sanford, Supervising Inspector for the Fourth District.

Pension Agents—Alex. Clapperton, Ft. Gibson, Cherokee Nation; Harrison Adrian, Baltimore, Md.; Samuel McKee, Louisville, Ky.; Wm. O. Goodloe, Lexington, Ky.

Wm. Vincent, Receiver of Public Moneys, Ft. Dodge, Iowa.

DECISION BY ATTORNEY GENERAL.

The Attorney General has decided that collectors of customs are entitled, since July, 1866, to retain $2,000 a year out of the moneys received from importers for the storage of goods in private bonded warehouses. He has disallowed the claim of naval officers and surveyors to this compensation, unless when performing the duties of collectors.

PRINTING OFFICE CHANGES.

A. M. Clapp, Superintendent of Government Printing, has removed C. E. Lathrop, Foreman of Congressional Document Room, Mark Woodward, Assistant Foreman, and John C. Francona, Foreman of Executive Printing Room. The last named had been for thirteen years connected with the office.

WILL NOT VISIT CALIFORNIA.

Mr. Sargeant, of California, asked President Grant to-day whether he intended to visit California during the coming summer, when the President replied that the distance was too great, and he could not spare the time from official duties.

DISPATCHES FROM MEXICO.

Mr. Brink, special bearer of dispatches from Mexico, who arrived here yesterday, had an interview with the President this morning, when he delivered his dispatches. The President referred them to Secretary Fish.

CABINET MEETING.

All the members of the Cabinet were present at the meeting this morning, with the exception of the Postmaster General.

NEW YORK CITY.

Physician Attempts Suicide—Counterfeiter Recaptured—Forger Committed—Bank Injunction.

(By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.)

NEW YORK, April 30, 1869.

Dr. Black, one of the physicians charged with causing the death of the girl Ellen Carlock, was found in his cell in Hudson county, N. J., jail, this morning, with his throat cut. Four wounds were also found on his wrists, and a long gash across his stomach. The wounds were all made with a razor, but neither of them is of a serious nature.

Rufus Nash, one of the counterfeiters who escaped from jail in Albany, has been recaptured.

A fire this afternoon in Park Place damaged the stock of the Glen Cove Starch Company to the amount of $1,000; fully insured.

James Smith, arrested on suspicion of being concerned in the Jay Cook & Co. forgeries, was examined before Justice Dowling, to-day, and committed in default of $1,000 bail. No new facts were elicited.

By arrangement between Justice Nelson and District Attorney Pierrepont, the Fullerton case will be tried June 7th.

Judge Barnard has issued an injunction against the Continental Bank, forbidding the paying over of any money to J. J. Baker, supposed to be one of the clerks of the Union Pacific Railroad. Baker had ninety-one dollars on deposit, which the bank will hold subject to the injunction.

A large meeting of Methodists in favor of lay delegations was held this evening in Williamsburg.

European mail advices state the whole telegraph, 33,600 miles of core of the French Atlantic cable; was completed April 16th.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS.

National Convention at Newark, N. J.

(By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.)

NEWARK, N. J., April 30.—At the afternoon session of the National Sunday School Convention, the subject discussed was, "How shall we increase the spiritual and religious efficiency of our Sunday Schools?"

The Committee on Resolutions reported favorably to the formation of normal schools and classes, encouraging the organization of State and county Institutes and denouncing intemperance. Resolutions were adopted by a unanimous vote of representatives from twenty-eight States.

At the evening session of the National Sabbath School Convention, speeches were made by E. D. Jones, of St. Louis, Drs. Poor and Taylor, of Newark, Revs. T. H. Vincent, Ralph Wells, Mr. Harling, of Canada, and other distinguished Sunday School laborers.

The Enrollment Committee reported five hundred and forty-five delegates representing twenty-nine States, Canada, England and South Africa. Farewell speeches were made by Mayor Reddfe and Rev. Dr. Fish, and responded to by Geo. H. Stuart. The Convention then adjourned.

ST. LOUIS.

Customs Receipts—Habeas Corpus Refused—The Grain Route Movement.

(By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.)

ST. LOUIS, April 30.—The receipts of customs here for April were $249,958.

The Supreme Court to-day refused to grant a writ of habeas corpus, applied for by Captain Wm. B. Donaldson, who is in jail on the old charge of killing a negro, on the steamer Great Republic, last summer.

A Committee, consisting of Lieutenant Governor Stanard, President of the St. Louis Grain Association, P. Plant, President of the Merchants' Exchange, Lee Schick, President of the Board of Trade, C. J. Filley, a heavy importer, and others, has been appointed to visit New Orleans in the interest of the grain movement by the river route.

—Two locomotives passed Poughkeepsie, N. Y., on Thursday, en route to California. They will be the first ones to go over the complete length of the Pacific Railroad. Eight more locomotives will leave Schenectady for California over the same route on the 10th of May.

BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

—A heavy hail storm prevailed in Henderson county, Ky., on Thursday.

—At Evansville, Indiana, Thursday night, James Miller attempted suicide by taking laudanum, but is recovering.

—At Evansville, Indiana, on Friday, the chair factory of John Buchner & Co. was destroyed by fire Loss about $5,000; insured for $2,400 in local offices.

—Senator Fessenden, of Maine, was present in the House of Commons, in Ottowa, Thursday night, during a debate on reciprocity.

—Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Richardson has declined the position of Justice of the Superior Court of Massachusetts, recently tendered him by Gov. Claflin.

—The negro charged with committing an outrage upon a young girl near New Haven, Conn., on Tuesday last, has been arrested and is now in jail there. He says his name is George Hudson, and he comes from Hartford.

—At Syracuse, New York, last evening, a section of the Salina street bridge over Erie Canal fell as the steamer No. 1, weighing four tons, was being drawn over it towards a fire. The engine was completely wrecked and three persons injured.

—Henry V. Clinton alias W. Bently, who was arrested in Wilmington, N. C., some time ago for forgery, has been identified as an old forger by Detective Jas. F. Rittenhouse, and was surrendered to the latter on requisition of the Governor of Illinois on the Governor of North Carolina. Bently will be carried to Champaign, Illinois, the scene of his crime, for trial.

—A statement of the Postoffice affairs for the first and second quarters of the current fiscal year shows that the funds are ample to meet all the expenses of the Department, and that no deficiency of the appropiration will be asked of Congress next winter. A portrait of Mr. Cresswell is being engraved for Postmaster General's drafts and warrants, which now bear Mr. Randall's head.

—At Ellsworth, Ks., a contract was entered into at a public meeting, Thursday night, between the citizens and Wm. Sigerson, representing capitalists of St. Louis, for the construction, within thirty days, of extensive stock yards for the accommodation of the Texas cattle trade, this being the eastern point at which cattle from Texas can, under the law, enter Kansas. A very large business is anticipated this season.

—In Montgomery, twelve miles from Cincinnati, there was a fearful tragedy on Thursday. While Alonzo C. Mueller was seated at dinner with his family, Abraham Crest, a neighbor, entered, armed with a double barreled shot gun. A quarrel ensued in regard to family matters, when Crest fired and Mueller fell, pierced through the chest by the full charge. He cannot recover. Mueller married the sister of Crest. The latter pleads in extenuation of this act that Mueller seduced an unmarried sister of Crest.

—At the New York Stock Exchange, on Thursday, Secretary of the Treasury Boutwell said: "As regards the Treasury Department, of which I am chief, I desire to state that it is my intention to collect the revenues of the country and add them to the legitimate accounts of the country, and the surplus will be used in liquidating the indebtedness of the United States, and the rest will be invested in governments. As to the business of my department, I intend it shall be conducted in a manner that if it were written on the walls of this building no man would be ashamed, and that no man shall feel he has been wronged of one cent. I deem it but fair and due to von that I should make this declaration. Thanking you for your kind reception, I have nothing further to say.

A HORRIBLE accident occurred at Alexander's brickyard, at Dayville, Ct., on Friday. Some of the knives in the tub in which the clay is cut up became deranged, and James Toomey, son of the Superintendent, having stopped them from running, got into the tub to remedy the difficulty. The other machinery in the building was in motion at the time, and the jar therefrom caused the belt to slip back upon the pulley. The knives were set in motion again, and Toomey's body was severed just below his arms.

THE cotton mills in the United States are 6,527 in number, running 7,585,082 spindles, and consuming 417,367,771 pounds of cotton per annum. This gives to each mill an average of 1,162 spindles, and a consumption of 63,945 pounds of cotton per annum. The statistics, arranged according to the great geographical divisions of the country, are as follows: Northern States, 6,441 mills, running 7,359,020 spindles, consuming 385, 952,021 pounds of cotton annually. Southern States, 86 mills, running 226,062 spindles, consuming 31,418,750 pounds of cotton annually. This gives to each of the mills in the Northern States 1,142 spindles, and an annual consumption of 59,921 pounds of cotton, and each of the mills in the Southern States an average of 2,638 spindles, and an annual consumption of 365,299 pounds of cotton. The mills in the Southern States, it will be perceived, are large establishments.

A CORRESPONDENT describing the infernal machine, termed the "shower bath," employed at Sing Sing prison, explains the method of punishment. The victim is stripped naked before a dozen keepers or guards, who are anxious to "see the sport," placed in a stock with hands and feet extended and firmly fastened by the wrists and ankles—spread eagle fashion—with the chin resting on a plank, and head thrown back on another plank in such a way as to receive the deluge directly in the mouth. In from three to five minutes the man is drowned into unconsciousness, and a very few repetitions wreck the strongest constitutions.

THE Coolies introduced into the British West India Colonies during 1868, according to a Parliamentary return just published in England, amounted in number to 3,001 persons, of whom 1,367 went to Trinidad, and 2,534 into British Guiana. Since 1843 there have been 207,022 immigrants introduced into the British West Indies, and 341,265 into the island of Mauritius. During the same period, over 100,000 have returned from the colonies mentioned to their native countries.

MONONGAHELA CITY.

Templars' Convention—The Bycicle—Body Found—Paper Mill.

(Correspondence of the the Pittsburgh Gazette.)

MONONGAHELA CITY, April 30, 1869.

MESSRS. EDITORS: I desire to give you an account of this pleasant town as it was and is, besides other topics of interest that have come under my notice on my trip here. Leaving Pittsburgh I took passage on the "calliopic' steamer "Elisha Bernett." I found clerks Dales and Smith in the office, and can assure you that your correspondent desired no more agreeable company than these officers. After an enjoyable trip of a few hours we reached this place, to find everything moderately quiet. On the 27th inst. the Templars' Convention met at the M. E. Church. Delegates from Lodges in the adjoining counties were present. The meeting was first addressed by Hon. S. B. Chase, R. W. G. C. T. of North America, on "The Dangers of Moderate Drinking." The lecture was very clear and forcible and was received with approbation by the large audience assembled. Rev. Lemon, of your city, also delivered a lengthy address on the "Adulteration of Liquors" the following day. This gentleman offered statistics to back his opinions. Hon. George W. Lawrence, ex-Congressman from this district, being present, was called upon to give his views on the questions before the Convention, which he did with satisfaction to those present. A petition is now circulating, the object of which is to do away with the bars on the river boats. Here I think will be a knotty point, and I fancy the temperance brethren will find it up hill work to squelch these "dens of iniquity," as the speakers repeatedly designated them. The Convention was well attended, and was in session only two days. I may here state that there are no licensed houses in this place, but the boys evidently know the "shades," and I dare say there is as much "benzine" and other intoxicating beverages hid away in the stomachs of many here as if there were licensed saloons.

This town, many of your readers will remember, was the scene of the "great Whiskey Insurrection" in 1795, or thereabouts.

The bycicle has found its way here.—Geo. W. Pittock and W. S. Ross, of your city, are the managers of the school.—Owing to the Templars' Convention, business has been poor with them. They remain a few days longer, and I trust they will meet with such success as will repay them for their loss in the past.—They go hence to Brownsville, Morgantown, Uniontown, &c.

On Tuesday last the body of young Stockton Harvey, one of the five men drowned by the capsizing of a skiff near Greensboro, about two months ago, was found. The body was taken in charge and conveyed to that place on the steamer "Bennet." On the arrival of the boat a large number of citizens assembled at the landing. As the body was being borne to his old home the people followed in procession. Yesterday morning at eight o'clock the remains were followed to the grave by many citizens in carriages and on foot. "Stock," as he was familiarly called, was not over 21 years of age, and was the life and soul of his home. The young men in fact all loved him as a brother. May he rest in peace. As I was passing the Cemetery, I noticed the rude skiff which was the means of the casualty. It lays here to be seen by the many visiting the spot.

I had the pleasure of meeting Chill Hazzard, (who does everything from a farmer to a lawyer and publisher,) this week, and, with his affable assistants, Geo. L. Mellinger and Lute C. Collins, gives perfect satisfaction in the postoffice and store room attached. A trip to the east side brought me to the paper mill of Mr. A. C. Culbertson. I was agreeably surprised to see such an extensive establishment. The mill is one of the largest of the kind in the country, and supplies many houses in the east with the brown paper box boards, made at the mill. I think I have written more than you will see fit to publish, so I will stop, trusting to be able to write again.

Yours, G.

DEFEATED CANDIDATES for Congress have, it is stated, of late years been in the habit of contesting the seats of their successful competitors in order to secure the amount usually voted to pay their expenses. During the last twelve years the payments have amounted to $108,743 to unsuccessful contestants, and to $69,653 to candidates who were unseated, making a total of $178,396. In order to prevent this extravagant expenditure, a bill has been introduced into Congress providing that in case of contested seats no money shall be paid to either candidate, until a decision is reached by the House, when the salary shall be given to the member legally elected. No greater sum of money is to be paid to the person declared not to be entitled than has actually been expended by him. The Committee on Elections of the House, it is stated, have agreed to report this bill, and an effort will be made for its passage soon after the meeting of Congress.

THE highest store rent paid in Broadway, New York, is that of Jaffray's dry goods store, corner of Leonard street, which brings $60,000. The highest hotel rent is that of the Fifth Avenue, which rates at $100,000 per annum; but the most profitable of all its edifices is Trinity Building. This is occupied by offices. It cost about $200,000, and rents for nearly one-half that sum. Single offices bring from $1,000 to 2,000, and the coal trade is almost entirely done here. A. T. Stewart's property on Broadway alone is worth about $5,000,000. W. B. Astor's real estate on Broadway is worth about $3,000,000. The Lorillard estate has $8,000,000 invested in that thoroughfare.

PROFESSOR POWELL, who departed some months ago in charge of the scientific expedition to explore the Rocky Mountains and the Great West, has returned to Bloomington, Illinois, for the purpose of procuring four portable boats in Chicago, which are to be carried on the Pacific Railroad as far as possible. The party are to embark in these boats at the headwaters of Green River, and follow that and other streams into which it empties to the Pacific Ocean. In doing this the party will spend some ten months.

AN INDIAN COUNCIL.

[From Loauh Ellah, a poem by C. H. MILLER, of Canyon City, Oregon.]

Some were gray and thin and wiery,
And wise in their brief councillings;
Some were young and rude and fiery;
Some were lordly and grand as kings.

Flamed the council fire brighter,
Flashed black eyes like diamond beads,
As a woman told her sorrows,
And a warrior told his deeds.

Slowly rose one from the circle,
Like a mast from out the sea—
King, was stamped on every muscle,
Chief of all the braves was he.

Women melted from the circle,
Boys crept backward out of sight,
Till alone a wall of warriors
Sat reflecting back the light.

Then was lit the pipe of council
That their fathers smoked of old,
With its stem of manzinetta
And its bowl of quartz and gold.

Then from lip to lip in silence
Burned it round the circle red
Like a meteor of midnight,
Prophecying war and dread.

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

It is expected at the approaching session of the General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church, committees will report on the copyright of Prof. Jones' Version of the Psalms; on revision of new versions of the Psalms; to prepare a new version of the Psalms; on the subject of a general treasurer for all Boards; on secret societies; on indigent widows of ministers; on union with the Reformed Presbyterian Church; on Presbyterian Union, and on the Constitution and Regulations of the Board of Home Missions. The United Presbyterian of this city says in addition to the reports of these committees, the following questions will be brought to the attention of the Assembly: Of marriage with a deceased wife's sister; of consolidating the Theological Seminaries; of establishing one religious weekly newspaper, one theological quarterly, and a monthly magazine, all to be under the control of the Assembly and conducted by a recognized Board of Publication; of revising that part of the Book of Government which treats of appeals; of the validity of Roman Catholic baptism; of the finances of the Church; of the education of the children of foreign missionaries, and of the length of time which returned foreign missionaries shall be retained in this country at the expense of the Board.

The Centenary of Universalism in this country will occur in 1870. The General Convention, through a Committee, have agreed upon a plan for celebrating the occasion. This includes a session of the General Convention in September of 1870, in Gloucester Massachusetts, where Rev. John Murray established the first Universalist church of the country. It has been resolved to raise two hundred thousand dollars as a centenary offering, of which one hundred thousand dollars shall be devoted to the building of a Memorial Church at Washington City. The remaining one hundred thousand dollars is to be called the Murray Centenary Fund, and to be devoted to the aid of theological students and mission work generally. It is expected the Centenary offerings—cancelling church debts, endowing colleges and building churches, will reach an aggregate of one million of dollars.

The Independent represents the First Baptist Church of New York, now in course of erection, will be one of the finest in the country. The baptistery will be of white marble, and half the front made of plate glass, so that the ordinance itself, and not merely the standing in water of the candidate and administrator can be seen.

At the last session of the Northwestern Indiana Conference, held at Richmond, Indiana, Bishop Simpson expressed the sentiment in an address that the tide of drunkeness and immorality, especially in our great cities, can not be stopped until the ballot is given to woman.

The Sunday school of the Church of the Holy Trinity, New York, was started less than five years ago by the rector, Rev. S. H. Tyng, Jr., with only seven scholars. It now numbers nearly four hundred, has a model Sunday school chapel, a normal class for training teachers numbering twenty-five and is a model school. Mr. Northrup, a Broadway merchant, is the Superintendent. It is stated the rector is always present, as every pastor ought to be and not to gossip with teachers and visitors. The germ of this church, says the Independent was seven scholars, now it has one of the finest locations in the city, (Madison avenue,) for church, chapel and Sunday school room, a membership of nine hundred and fifty, and supports five mission schools. The church raised last year eight-nine thousand dollars.

The New York correspondent of the Presbyterian frequently gives interesting facts in reference to churches in that city. In a brief account of the Second Reformed Presbyterian church, under the pastorate of Rev. Dr. Stevenson, covering a period of thirty years, we learn that when he took charge some families in the membership were engaged in the liquor traffic. The next year (1840) the ground was taken that the "traffic in ardent spirits for luxurious purposes, and as a beverage, is destructive to souls as well as bodies of men, and scandelous to the Church." This made some trouble. In the language of the pastor at this time, "Sin never dies easy." But the liquor traffic was purged out, and the congregation prospered.

The Churchman thinks every well established parish in the country, and every wealthy city parish, ought to possess two things, a Church Home for aged and indigent communicants, and an Infirmary, where it is possible. It objects to "large hospitals," as they "partake of the necessary faults of all great institutions."

In connection with the Franklin Street Mission Sabbath school, in the Third United Presbyterian church of this city, Rev. Dr. J. G. Brown pastor, there is a department for mutes, which has steadily grown until it now numbers over thirty mutes—teachers and scholars. This interesting department is under the charge of Mr. Joel Kerr, of that church. A exhibitionis to be given by the teachers and pupils Thursday evening next.

Revivals after all do some good, notwithstanding certain liberal Christians denounce immediate conversions. A journal unfavorable to revivals chronicles the following incident: A man in Westfield, after attending a series of revival meetings, placed a notice on the door of his shop to the following effect: "No more rum sold on these premises after this date." Would it not be a happy thing if all the rum sellers could be induced to attend such places and feel revival power that would lead them to place similar billets upon the door of their shops.

The Sunday School Journal, published under the auspices of the Methodist Episcopal Church, has doubled its circulation in ten months. It now issues monthly thirty-seven thousand copies. This is said to be the largest circulation yet reached by any teacher's publication in this country.

At the recent session of the Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church, at Meadville, Pa., it was decided to change the time of holding the session of the Pittsburgh Conference to some time in the month of April, instead of March. The exact time will be determined at the meeting of the Bishops in the Autumn.

The new Presbyterian Home for Aged Women, to be erected in New York, will soon be commenced. It will be eighty-five feet front, of Philadelphia brick, and will cost one hundred thousand dollars.

The General Synod of the Evangelical Lutheran Church will meet in Washington City, Thursday, May 18th.

An Episcopal clergyman of Indiana has been found guilty, by the proper judicatory of that Church, of the offence of witnessing the "Black Crook," and his Bishop has reprimanded him accordingly.

In our issue of yesterday we announced that we had received the second and third volumes of Barnes' Notes on the Psalms—reserving a fuller notice of this valuable work for this department. Mr. Barnes has long enjoyed an enviable reputation as a commentator of Holy Scripture. For practical excellencies his Notes on the New Testament are worthy of the highest praise. These Notes are much of the same character—plain, direct and practical. The Notes on the New Testament have been circulated by hundreds of thousands, and we expect that the Notes on the Psalms, will also have a wide circulation. No greater or more enduring monument need he leave to perpetuate his good name than these "Notes," the product of forty years labor. Well may he rest from mental toil, pleasant and agreeable as it has been to his mind and heart. It is noteworthy that this herculean work was accomplished in the early morning hours, while the city in which he lived had not awakened from its slumbers. Thus he was enabled to carry on a double work, performing well the office of pastor of a large congregation at the same time. Harper's have brought the work out in fine style and worthy of the house.

Stewart's New Model Dwelling.

One of the most important enterprises ever instituted in the interest of the working classes of this country has been begun, and is now rapidly going forward, on Fourth avenue from Thirty-second to Thirty-third streets. Mr. Alexander T. Stewart is the projector, and is properly determined on making it, not merely a great benefit and an example worthy of imitation, but a remunerative investment. His purpose is to erect a magnificent palace of iron, somewhat resembling his store on the corner of Broadway and Tenth street, which will have stores on its ground floor and sleeping and eating accommodations for fifteen hundred persons in the remaining stories of the building. The extent of the new structure will 197 feet on Fourth avenue, and 205 feet on both Thirty-second and Thirty-third streets. It will surround a court 100 feet square, consequently, every apartment will possess windows upon the open air, and ample consequent ventilation. The height will be seven stories upon the Fourth avenue, in addition to the basement, and eight stories upon the side streets. The whole building will be painted white, externally and internally, and crowned with a Mansard roof of slate. It will be bricked behind the iron walls, and be thoroughly fireproof. The staircases will be of iron, and an elevator will be attached, which will transport luggage and residents to the various stories. A water tank will exist on the top of the house, and water will be in abundance upon every floor. The rooms will each be heated by a coil of pipes, affording means of regulating the temperature. Those for sleeping purposes will either be small, for single inmates, or eight feet by eighteen for two persons. Others will be sixteen feet by eighteen, for four persons. All will be well furnished, and contain every essential convenience. The partitions will be of iron and brick. As little wood will be employed in the building as practicable. Bedsteads and tables will be of iron. The basement will contain the engine and heating apparatus, bathrooms, and storerooms of different kinds. In the back part of the ground floor, which will have no face on the street, and cannot be used for stores, the kitchen and laundry will be located. Above these will be the restaurant and dining-room, and a large parlor for social purposes, elegantly furnished. To this a library and reading-room will be added. The cost of the whole may exceed $3,000,000. A handsome interest upon this will be met, in a large degree, by the lease of the numerous stores below, leaving a very small sum to be paid for each of the rooms. The food furnished in the restaurant will be at cost, and in addition to the expense of cooking, serving, &c., and it is calculated that an inmate will be able to live abundantly well, washing, rent and food included, for little more than $2 a week. The more numerous the household, the less expense to each. The Working Women's Home, at 45 Elizabeth street, costs to each person from $3 to $3.50, and numbers two hundred and sixty residents. An aggregation of fifteen hundred inmates will effect far greater economies. The establishment is intended solely for the benefit of women who work for their support. If a sufficient number of respectable and well recommended women cannot be found to fill it, single men will probably also be admitted. The Working Women's Home has proved that women much prefer to be associated with a sprinkling of the opposite sex, inasmuch as that establishment, notwithstanding its advantages, has never been filled during its existence of eighteen months. This enterprise, if successful, will be followed by the building of a similar dwelling for young men, on the part of Mr. Stewart, and may lead to the erection by other capitalists of immense residences of the kind for families, where children could be cared for and properly supervised in a separate section, and prove no annoyance to grown people. A thorough supervision of young persons at home is sadly needed. The present tenement-house system is not only injurious to the minds and morals of children, but, by throwing promiscuously together young persons of both sexes approaching maturity, is the cause of social ruin to many women. It is intended that the restaurant of Mr. Stewart's new establishment, outside women, properly introduced, shall be admitted to participate in the cheap rates.

Shall a Woman Preach—Interesting Sketch of the Widow Van Cott, the Only Licensed Methodist Woman Preacher in the United States.

A stir was created in the New York M. E. Conference in Sing Sing by the announcement of the presiding elder of the Ellenville district that the quarterly conference of his district had licensed as a preacher the remarkable "Widow Van Cott." The Conference at once became a stormy sea of debate, about one-half being in favor of continuing the "widow" in the good cause of converting souls, while the other half were strenuously opposed to such a proceeding, avowing openly and above board that it was a woman's suffrage movement, with which they would have nothing to do. The Rev. Mr. McCauber moved that the Conference disapprove the practice of licensing women preachers, but his motion did not prevail. An attempt was made to censure the presiding elder of the Ellenville district for licensing the Widow Van Cott to preach, but it did not succeed. The next day the widow's case was up again, and the subject was referred to a special committee to report at the next meeting of the Conference.

The "Widow Van Cott" is settled in Madaline, Dutchess county, where last winter there was an extensive religious revival, first in the Baptist church, under the ministration of the Rev. E. Tompkins, and now in the Methodist church. The widow is holding forth in the latter, and is daily and nightly impressing the minds of the unconverted. In person she is considerably above the middle hight and very stout, weighing over 200 pounds. She dresses with neatness in plain black; her manners in private are unassuming. Her countenance when at rest is heavy and sensuous, with something of the expression of Dumas the elder, but in the excitement of oratory, her kindling eye exercises a magnetic influence over her audience. Like most revivalists, she is more declamatory than argumentative, appealing rather to the passions than to the reason. Her articulation is distinct and easily heard in any part of the church (we had almost said village,) and her style, being varied, does not fatigue the hearer.

At times she amuses the fancy with familiar talk filled with flowery imagery, fixing the attention and winning her hearers until, rising with her theme, she rushes on with the excitement of inspiration, breaking down the fortifications of the ungodly, and carrying their works by storm. She is not an educated woman in the popular sense, and her influence as a consequence is chiefly that of a popular orator. She is gifted with a very remarkable flow of language; her gestures are graceful and her general style would give rise to the notion that she derived her ideas of public speaking from dramatic performers. Her powers of endurance are very remarkable, enabling her to speak nearly three hours every evening through the week and twice on Sundays. She has already converted sixty persons in Madaline, and upward of 2,000 in the Prattsville district. She is fair, fat and forty, and has the promise of a long career of usefulness before her.

The Nations Without Fire.

According to Pliny fire was a long time unknown to the ancient Egyptians, and when Exodus (the celebrated astronomer) showed it them, they were absolutely in rapture. The Persians, Phœnicians, Greeks, and several other nations, acknowledged that their ancestors were once without the use of fire, and the Chinese confess the same of their progenitors. Pompanion, Mola, Plutarch, and other ancients, speak of nations who, at the time they wrote, knew not the use of fire, or had just learned it. Facts of the same kind are also attested by several modern nations. The inhabitants of the Marian Islands, which were discovered in 1551, had no idea of fire. Never was astonishment greater than theirs when they saw it on the desert of Magellan, in one of their islands. At first they believed it was some kind of an animal that fixed to and fed upon wood. The inhabitants of the Phillippine and Canary Islands were formerly equally ignorant. Africa presents, even in our own day, nations in this deplorable state.

THE London University, it is stated, has now among its students a large number of young natives of India, who are prosecuting their studies in literature, law and medicine, with a view either to practice the learned professions or to obtain appointments to government situations, now opened to them by the system of competitive examinations. The acquaintance with English books and the high intellectual acquirements of the Bengalis have excited great surprise in London. These young men, it is stated, have abandoned their belief in the ancient idolatry of India, and are now Theists.

CONTINUES TO TREAT ALL
private diseases. Syphilis in all its forms, Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Stricture, Orchitis, and all urinary diseases, and the effects of mercury are completely eradicated; Spermatorrhœa or Seminal Weakness and Impotency, resulting from self-abuse or other causes, and which produces some of the following effects, as blotches, bodily weakness, indigestion, consumption, aversion to society, unmanliness, dread of future events, loss of memory, indolence, nocturnal emissions, and finally so prostrating the sexual system as to render marriage unsatisfactory, and therefore imprudent, are permanently cured. Persons afflicted with these or any other delicate, intricate or long standing constitutional complaint should give the Doctor a trial; he never fails.
A particular attention given to all Female complaints, Leucorrhea or Whites, Falling, Inflammation or Ulceration of the Womb, Ovaritis, pruritis, Amenorrhœa, Menorrhagia, Dysmenorrhœa, and Sterility or Barrenness, are treated with the greatest success.
It is self-evident that a physician who confines himself exclusively to the study of a certain class of diseases and treats thousands of cases every year must acquire greater skill in that specialty than one in general practice.
The Doctor publishes a medical pamphlet of fifty pages that gives a full exposition of venereal and private diseases, it at can be had free at office or by mail for two stamps, in sealed envelopes. Every sentence contains instruction to the afflicted, and enabling them to determine the precise nature of their complaints.
The establishment, comprising ten ample rooms, is central. When it is not convenient to visit the city, the Doctor's opinion can be obtained by giving a written statement of the case, and medicines can be forwarded by mail or express. In some instances, however, a personal examination is absolutely necessary, while in others daily personal attention is required, and for the accommodation of such patients there are apartments connected with the office that are provided with every requisite that is calculated to promote recovery, including medicated vapor baths. All prescriptions are prepared in the Doctor's own laboratory, under his personal supervision. Medical pamphlets at office free, or by mail for two stamps. No matter who have failed, read what he says. Hours 9 A.M. to 8 P.M. Sundays 12 M. to 2 P.M. Office, No. 9 WYLIE STREET, (near Court House,) Pittsburgh, Pa.

PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, FRIDAY, April 30, 1869.

The oil market, compared with yesterday, has undergone but little change, and presents but little that is new or important. This being the last day of the month there was considerable inquiry for spot oil, which was necessary in order to cover maturing contracts, and prices for this delivery were if anything, a shade higher. Otherwise, as we have already intimated, nothing transpired worthy of special notice, and the market remains in much the same condition it has been in all week.

CRUDE—There was some inquiry for spot oil to-day, and owing to peculiar circumstances, prices were unsettled and irregular. We can report 2000 spot (40 to 45) settlement of contract, at 15; 1000 settlement, (40 to 46) spot on private terms, understood to be about 14⅝ or 14¾, and 2000 spot, (40 to 46) at 14¾. In regard to the 15 cent sale, it may not be out of place to state that it was "forced," as this was the last day of grace, and the contract calling for a certain gravity which is very scarce, the seller had to pay that figure to secure it.

REFINED—Sale of two lots of 1000 each, on spot, at 32½, subsequently 500 at 32; also, in Philadelphia, May, June and July at 33½; July to September, at 35; and September alone, at 35½; May, last half, at 32¾; and May and June, at 38¼. Buyer all year, nominal at 37@37½.

RIVER NEWS.

The river is about stationary with scant five feet in the channel last evening by the Monongahela marks. Weather was clear and cool during the early part of the day, but in the aftrnnoon the sky became overcast with indications of more rain.

No arrivals to record aside from the packets and the Kenton and Parkersburg packet were the only departures.

The Lorena succeded in getting over Glass House on Thursday evening, after relieving herself of considerable freight.

The Kate Putman, Capt. G. W. Reed, will positively take her departure for St. Louis and the upper Mississippi today. She is a commodious and substancial craft, and is in excellent condition for business. Mr. Wm. Harbison still retains charge of the office.

Business holds out pretty well, and will be seen, tonnage is remarkably scarce.

The Grey Eagle, Capt. C. L. Brennan, is the regular packet for Parkersburg to-pay, leaving promptly at noon. The Eagle has been in the trade so long that she has become a permanent institution.

The Glasgow, Capt. Andy Robinson, Jr., takes her departure for St. Louis and the Upper Mississippi to-day, and passengers and shippers should bear this in mind. Capt. Robinson is an old and highly esteemed steamboatman, and the same is true of the cashier, Mr. Dravo.

We notice in the St. Louis papers, that the Urilda was built here by Capt. H. K. Haslett. This is a mistake. She was built by Capt. T. W. Loughrey and others for the Allegheny River trade, and after the completion of the Allegheny Valley Railroad, was sold to Com. W. J. Kountz, and others, who spent considerable money in repairing and remodeling her for the mountain trade.

There were but two boats in port last evening, the Kate Putnam and Glasgow.

The Emma No. 3, from New Orleans, has among other items of freight, 46 hhds. of sugar for John I. House & Co.

The Wild Duck and Barges were at Louisville on Wednesday, also the Mary Davage and barges.

The Tennessee recently sunk seventy-five miles below Sioux City, was formerly the Exchange, and was built at Brownsville, in 1862, for Capt. J. W. Anawalt and others. She was valued at $12,000, and insured for $9,000 in the following companies: Home, of New Haven, $3,000: Independent, of Boston, $2,500, and Enterprise, of Cincinnati, $2,500.

—The New Orleans Republican of Saturday, says:

Captain De Haven the President of the Mississippi Valley Navigation Company, left here last evening for Western cities. The first boat will be completed in about four months. Her machinery is being constructed at Louisville, her hull at Jeffersonville and other portions at New Albany, Indiana. Eighty-four thousand dollars in cash has so far been paid to the builders.

—The Messenger was to have left Cincinnati for Pittsburgh on Thursday.

—The Argosy left Cincinnati for Pittsburgh on Wednesday, with over 300 tons. Pilots, Jacob Poe and Son.

—The Glendale, Emma No. 3, Australia and Boaz were all at Evansville on Wednesday, and the Grand Luke was at Cairo the same day.

Although Congress has repudiated every existing treaty with the Indians, it seems to be generally understood that the reservation policy, which was inaugurated by the Peace Commissioners, is not to be abandoned. On the contrary, it is to be made a cardinal point in the direction of Indian affairs, by this Administration.

RAILWAY NEWS.

The unfinished portions of the New Lisbon road, in Ohio, are to be completed forthwith.

The Pan-Handle, or P. C. & St. L. Company, have offered substantial aid in promoting the construction of a road from Coshocton, Ohio, via Mt. Vernon to Delaware and Marion. This road will be constructed upon the line of the present Walhonding Canal.

IRREVERSIBLE FACTS.

The three Democratic Justices of our Supreme Court appear to find no difficulty—certainly no scruple—in overruling the decisions of their two Republican associates, which seems to touch the point of Democratic impunity in ballot-box stuffing, forged and fraudulent naturalization papers, and in other similar Democratic proclivities during an exciting political canvass. The latest instance of the alacrity of these Democrats on the bench to do their level best for the excellent party which it is their privilege to represent, was afforded at Philadelphia, recently, where one of them overturned an obnoxious decision of last autumn, to the great satisfaction of his political friends.

If the opposition could, with the same facility, blot out the black record of its election frauds at Philadelphia last October—if it could so easily obliterate every trace of the infamous practices which the subsequent investigations have exposed by testimony so irresistible that even Democratic candidates, whom those frauds seemed to have elected, have abandoned their claims in disgust,—if the Democracy of Philadelphia can prize the flagrant record of its facts as easily as they can supply themselves, at an hour's notice, with Judge-made law,—one might then, perhaps, be inclined to believe that the party is really as immaculate as once was the ermine in which our Judges were robed.

A CONFLICT DECLINED.

Kentucky still groans over the irrepressible conflict. It has been everywhere else repressed, except in that State, but there it flourishes to vex the saints of Democracy, to torment them with a peace which is not peace, and to provoke them into a frantic and bootless struggle with a higher Federal law. Kentucky refuses obedience to the Civil Rights Act of the United States, of April 8th, '66. She has declined to admit the testimony of negroes in her courts, and challenges the direct issue with the Federal authority. Kentucky is very brave in this—but considerably more discreet than some people give her credit for. For example, one Conley, colored, on trial in a Kentucky court for his life, offered negro testimony in his defence, under the provisions of the Civil Rights Law. The Judge rejected it as inadmissable under existing State legislation. The accused was convicted and sentenced to death. His execution was appointed for yesterday, the 30th. On the preceding day, Judge Ballard, of the U. S. District Court, ordered a stay of proceedings, for a revision of the legal question upon the validity of a Federal law, before a Federal tribunal.

From the way they talk in Kentucky, the reader would naturally suppose that they would snap their fingers at the Federal intervention, and hang the condemned negro at the time appointed. Not a bit of it. Kentucky valor is tempered with quite enough of wise discretion. The Governor at once reprieved the man for thirty days. Kentucky rings with indignant surprise that the Federal Court should intervene in the case, and with the menace that no more delay is to be granted after this reprieve expires. We shall see. We respect Kentuckian valor, but we have a profound admiration for Kentuckian discretion. The Federal Courts will adjudicate upon the matter in due time, and until then the man's life is safe. Whether he is afterwards hung or discharged, will depend very much upon the Federal interpretation of his legal rights.

The Governor of Kentucky shows a statesmanlike wisdom in declining the conflict of authority, which the inconsiderate hot-heads of some of his people would precipitate upon that Commonwealth. He defers to the obligations of his own official oath, to uphold the Federal Constitution and laws, and awaits patiently that ultimate decision which will have his implicit obedience when it is rendered.

SOUTHERN POLITICAL PROSPECTS.

The elections in the unreconstructed States are likely to be deferred until after the crops shall be laid by, say in September. This will enable the laboring classes to take an active interest in the canvass. The Virginia Conservatives will make an earnest effort to secure the assent of the President to an earlier date for the election in those States, but probably without success.

Virginia politics are rapidly simmering down into a square contest between the radical and the moderate Republicans. The former have nominated Wells for Governor, and will support the complete text of the proposed Constitution, while the latter have succeeded in securing the co-operation of the formerly rebel element, in favor of Walker as the candidate, and accepting the Constitution without its three offensive sections. Mr. Walker was placed in the field some weeks since, by a Convention which certainly represented all the practical wisdom of the reconstructed rebels of the State. These were content to accept suffrage as a fact accomplished, and to make thebest of it. With them, were a few citizens who have always been loyal to the Union, but who doubt the expediency of aught like a harsh policy toward even the unrepentant among their people. The Convention which sat this week at Richmond represented the extreme left of the rebel wing—that portion of the people who find nothing but necessity to reccommend their submission to the new order of things. But they do recognize the necessity, and pledge themselves to the support of the Walker ticket. There were some malcontents in this Convention who breathed a sullen defiance, and who may yet decide to abstain altogether from attendance at the polls. It is more probable that they will ultimately subside into the Walker party, and trust to the results for their more effective influence in shaping the future policy of Virginia.

On the whole, it is now clear enough that the new Constitution, exclusive of the clauses referred to, will be adopted without any effective opposition from any quarter. It is equally probable that those clauses will be rejected. In either event, a State Government will be organized, Congressmen elected, two Senators chosen, the XVth Article ratified, and the Old Dominion, purged, renovated and pretty thoroughly reconstructed, will be ready in December next, to resume that place in the sisterhood of State which she spat upon eight and a half years before.

The political tendencies in Texas and Mississippi all point in the same direction, and similar results may be looked for. The popular feeling in those States is quite unanimous upon one point—that they have been out of their practical relations to the Union quite as long as is good for them, and that all questions which reconstruction may not finally settle should be adjourned until after their recognition as States.

The next session of Congress will close up the open questions as to these three States. Only the Georgian business will then remain for adjustment, and, when it comes to that, and that only, the pressure for its settlement, in some such practical way as will not surrender too much of the Federal position, will prove irresistible. After that, again, broader concessions, toward all the once-rebel States, may, from time to time, be suggested by the progress of events, and especially by the advancing loyalty of their several populations.

THE PERIL OF THE REPUBLICAN PARTY.

The organization of the Republican party was not an original movement, but an outgrowth of an earlier one, having for its ultimate object the extirpation of slavery from the soil of the United States. As was natural, this earlier movement had respect mainly to the moral and religious aspects of domestic servitude. Glowing appeals were made to the conscience. Powerful arguments were addressed to selfishness itself. The effect was prodigious. The momentum of the movement was susceptible of measurement by the magnitude and formidableness of the forces brought into requisition to resist its march, and turn it backward. It was inevitable that such an agitation, conducted in a country ruled by popular institutions, should lap over into the realm of politics. The evil under debate was political as well as moral. It had managed to find a sort of shelter in the Constitution; and by means of the political influence with which it had become armed, had succeeded in surrounding itself with a fictitious halo of sacredness that imposed on the credulity of millions of citizens.

The Republican party was so organized, and the objects to be accomplished through it so defined, as to bring it as fairly within Constitutional limitations as any other party whatsoever. It contemplated no revolutionary measures; demanded no change in the organic laws; called only for that which each voter had a right to urge and demand; and this was the territorial restriction of domestic servitude. So far as it had extended, it was not proposed to touch it; but the resolution was invincible to prevent it from going farther. Herein was not only due reverence for law, but an unsurpassed practical wisdom. If the pernicious institution could be effectually circumscribed, the augmentation and diffusion of population would reduce it to comparative insignificance, and, by stripping it of political importance, expose it to ultimate, if not to swift decay.

If any man or woman supposed, from this definition of the political end to be attained, that the Republican party was not actuated by a profound abhorrence of slavery, and by an irrevocable determination to do all that it lawfully could do to undermine and destroy it, he or she was strangely mistaken. In its proclamation it halted where the Constitution commanded, and not because its convictions would not have carried it farther. The men who gave the party its mental power and moral impulse, were of the old anti-slavery school, having their visions purified from all obstructions, and their vows recorded on high that the giant iniquity against which they had taken up arms should fall to rise no more forever. Imbued with an invincible enthusiasm, they inspired their co-workers with large measures of their own temper.

The Rebellion which the slaveholders inaugurated and maintained, not simply to preserve their prescriptive right to human chattelism, but to bring the political institutions of the country into harmony with the social forms prevailing in the Southern States, by the establishment of a monarchical or imperial government, made occasion for the war power to come in, and, by a blow, to demolish slavery. What anti-slavery men of all grades anticipated would require many years of laborious effort went down in an instant, as if smitten by fire from heaven.

What remained was to conform the Constitution and the statutes to the immutable justice the sword had decreed. The Fourteenth Amendment, and the Civil Rights act went a long way towards that end. The Fifteenth Amendment, now pending, will complete what is yet unfinished. This will bring the end which the Republican leaders and masses alike had in view when they enlisted in the momentous undertaking. The Fifteenth Amendment has already been ratified by the Legislature of Pennsylvania, so that here, as in a majority of the States, it can only incidentally become involved in popular discussion. A judgment thus solemnly awarded, must, from the very nature of it, be held to be irreversible.

Nor is there now, if there was formerly, any reason to doubt as so the ultimate ratification of the amendment by a sufficient number of States to make it indisputably a part of the fundamental law, and as legitimate and binding as any other portion thereof. This result is unmistakably foreshadowed by the elections held this spring. A year may elapse before the work shall be finished, but the completion of it is as certain as any future event whatever.

It is apparent, therefore, that the distinctive reformation for the accomplishment of which the Republican party was created approaches fulfillment. Consequently a large number of earnest, able and influential men, who, during many consecutive years, gave their best thoughts and energies to the Republican movement, feel a sense of relief, and are inclined to retire from active participation in politics. These men did not enter the political arena to subserve personal ambitions; to gain the honors or emoluments of public stations; but to vindicate natural justice, denied to millions of their countrymen, and to purify the republic from the odium under which it rested of tolerating the vilest system of oppression upon which the sun ever shone. These great ends attained, they are content to put off the weapons of political warfare, and to allow them to be taken up by who ever will. What they did was well done, and neither by force nor subtlety can be reversed. Slavery cannot be re-established; and the ballot once given to the blacks, caste is doomed to absolute annihilation.

Nor are the old Republican leaders alone in deciding that their work is accomplished, and that they are hence at liberty honorably to rest from their labors. The new administration at Washington has bestowed conspicuous recognition upon only one of these men—Mr. John Jay, who worthily wears a name illustrious in the history of his country. So pregnant an ignoring of the old Republican chiefs could not have happened, had the contest been progressing. The masses would have demanded their accustomed leaders, and ordinary prudence would have constrained compliance with the popular requisition.

Doubtless a new and younger set of men stand ready to take the places of the prominent Republicans who are now turning to seek repose from the fierce agitations in which they have shared for ten, or twenty, or thirty years. Are these new men able worthily to wear the mantles they covet? Will the masses recognize their voices, and put as much confidence in their suggestions and appeals as they did in the leaders under whose guidance they went through all the vicissitudes of the great and protracted struggle? What are to be the fresh issues, consonant with the questions now closing, and intended to supplement them, by which the traditional enthusiasm shall be maintained, and Republican ascendancy perpetuated? These are interrogatories which occur to all reflecting members of the party, and answers to them must be had in practical ways. These questionings, however, and the condition of facts which produce them, reveal the peculiar peril which at this moment besets the Republican organization.

That two political parties must always exist in this country, as in every other, is certain. There is no prospect or even possibility of the disintegration of the Democratic party. It may, and must, from time to time, change its rallying cries, and the special points of attack and defence. Constituted essentially of ignorant or vicious masses, it cannot do otherwise than reflect their passions and prejudices. So much is not in the least doubtful. But, can and will the Republican party under the new inspiration and leadership be kept up to that genuine love of Liberty for all men which has been its glory, and through which it won the most memorable victories recorded in political annals? To come down from the eminences of moral questions of the utmost gravity to topics purely of political expediency; to the payment of the public debt and the development of the national resources, important as these latter topics unquestionably are, is a descent likely to be followed by large abatements of enthusiasm.

Clearly these latter topics are next in order, as growing out of the necessities of the case. While the war lasted every effort was required to reinforce and sustain the armies. After the war closed the reconstruction of the Union necessarily followed, with the obtainment of equal rights for all classes of the people; and these ends are nearly realized. The most pressing concerns now up for consideration are those of finance and national prosperity. If the men who now hold leaderships are competent to the positions they occupy; if they perceive accurately the ground upon which the party stands, and must maintain, and if they shall be found capable of devising broad and comprehensive schemes, adequate to the occasion, and if so presenting them as to secure popular acceptance, the Republican party will go on to additional triumphs, which will increase its claims upon the gratitude of the country, and the applause of the friends of political amelioration throughout the world.

"NO MISSIONARY NEED APPLY."

Sir Samuel Baker is going to head an expedition to explore the region of the Upper Nile. It will be under the auspices of the Egyptian government, and its object will be not simply to discover but also to open up obstructed navigation, develop commerce and to try one of Sir Samuel's pet schemes for irrigating and reclaiming large desert tracts. He means to go well appointed. He will have a steamer carried in sections over the portage, and in it proceed, with both flags flying, to "The Albert N'Yanza." He will have astronomical instruments for latitude and longitude, meteorological instruments, a medicine chest, a medical man or two, and something cheerful for hot weather and wet weather, as the case may be.

More than this, the company is to be altogether select. He will have men that can reckon, men that can tell all about the rocks, mines, soils, roots, herbs, trees, springs, and all the rest, and that can write a whole library when they get home; men to shoot his game, cook his dinners, interpret his eloquence, carry his dispatches, and make themselves useful generally, but no missionary need apply. There must be, in such cases, some principle of discrimination, and what is more reasonable than that Sir Samuel's troup should be thoroughly purged of all missionary views? They go to look after the rivers, lakes, fruits, flowers and the dry sand of that clime of mystery. Keep out those vinegar-faced interlopers whose interest in the fauna of those localities might extend to the genus to which they themselves belong!

No missionary need apply!

Meanwhile the missionary packs his knapsack, slips his Bible into his side pocket, picks out a few trusty men, who think none the less of him because of his philanthropic infatuation, and sets out from the other end of the continent, and soon the whole world of letters is glad to follow his every step. They hold their breath when the rumor comes that evil has befallen him, and when, from the depths of the African wilderness, there issue broken syllables of tidings of him as still a living man, there is not a telegraph in Christendom, on continent or island, or under the tides of the ocean, that does not tell the story.

Any body may apply when the missionary makes up his expedition to discover new fields of victory for the Christian faith. Astronomy, meteorology, geology, botany, medical science and ethnology may all send their representatives, or, if the offer is not appreciated, he will, in his humble way, represent them all himself.

Alas for the narrow-minded bigotry of modern Christianity! Give us science and art and commerce to expand the minds and enlarge the views of men! Let these evangelical exclusives learn a lesson from Sir Samuel, and his select fellow-adventurers! Z.

A clergyman of Wolcott, Vermont, has patented a globe made of strong linen paper, in sections, which folds up so as to appear like a folded sheet of thick paper. By means of a steel spring it is sprung into shape, on the cover of a common atlas, so that, in all respects, it is a perfect artificial globe for common school use. The inventors have the machinery made to manufacture these globes as an attachment to the ordinary school atlas, at a cost that will place them within the reach of every scholar.

BUTLER HOMICIDE TRIAL.

THURSDAY MORNING.

Court opened at 8½ o'clock.

Mr. Riddle began his argument by reminding the jury of the unsuppressible nature of murder. The substance of his opinion is that it will out. He quoted Hamlet to prove that guilt will write itself upon the face of the guilty party, and insisted that it had so written itself on "this villain," "his blood-stained hands and adamantine heart." The speaker's sentiments in this convincing argument were given with considerable sound and fury. The "bleeding hearts of the bereaved parents" had appropriate and noisy mention. His argument appears to be chiefly made up of hard names, so I shall stop trying to follow, and report what it is very unworthy of the gentleman to speak, on so solemn an occasion.

After freeing his mind on the appearance and behaviour of the prisoner during the trial, and calling him all the foul epithets in the calendar, the eloquent gentleman referred to the Magna Charta of our rights, which, of course, requires that the "severest penalty of the law shall be meted out to this monster, that demon, that fiend."

The gentleman dealt largely in may have beens, might have beens, could have dones, and all the possibilities of prisoner having committed the crime which the Commonwealth has so signally failed to prove. In going over the testimony, Mr. Riddle took a flying leap from the blacking box to the letters. Not a word about the shawl! He blacked the prisoner's face, went through that mysterious performance of washing it, and then stepped right on to the letters, without a word about the shawl. As Mr. McJunkin is the "big Indian" of the proseeution, it is probable that this shawl, this large shawl, the shawl with the long fringe, has been reserved for his use. We, therefore, expect to see this good looking, elderly gentleman, in all the dignity of drapery, pouring his terrible anathemas on the prisoner's devoted head.

Mr. Riddle dwelt with unction on the mysterious circumstance of the prisoner having been fifteen minutes in his room, on that night, without being undressed. The gentleman got back to "the words of the poet" in due time, and from them glanced over the pistols and gun, took up the Dispatch and meandered through that wonderful subscription of one year, which extended from early in the spring of '60 to the summer of '62.

In concluding his argument, Mr. Riddle demanded the life of the prisoner, and the prosecuting uncle and aunt sat complacently, and nodded approval! When will the race be civilized?

C. McCandless, Esq., made the closing speech for the defence. His refutation of the theory that the prisoner did the shooting three years ago was complete. His three pistols were all examined closely; none of them would carry the large minnie revolver balls that the Commonwealth held were used in the shooting both at Mr. McCandless' and at Mr. Stoten's. The barn burning was not so clearly disposed of as the evidence warranted. The blacking box was better handled. A new feature was brought up, one which had not appeared in evidence, but which he appealed to as within the knowledge of some of the jury, viz: that the banks of Muddy Creek, all along in the neighborhood in which prisoner must have crossed it to go to and from Mr. McCandless', from Mr. Graham's, are always soft and will receive and hold such marks of footsteps as would make it easy to trace him if he had passed that way, and argued that, from the diligence with which Squire Graham and his son had sought testimony against the prisoner, as shown by their testimony, they would certainly have discovered his tracks on Muddy Creek had he made any that fatal night.

Court adjourned.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Reporter inquired of Mr. McJunkin if there was any legal process by which he could be arrested and confined in the common jail or anywhere else for a few days. He thought not. Other counsel agree with him, and so he will speak against the prisoner.

Mr. McCandless continued his argument, and took up the point of the supposed attack on Isaac Brannon. Mr. Graham testified that Taylor started for church after the family. They were riding, he walking. They got to Mr. Allen's when the moon rose; Taylor, it is claimed, was by the peach orchard before the moon rose. The peach orchard is a half mile farther from Mr. Graham's than is Mr. Allen's. How did he know that Brannon would be passing there at that time, and how did he know that there would be an opportunity to shoot the girl on that evening? He had been at work all day hauling lumber. How could he have made his calculations so nicely? The man who did the shooting had evidently been lying in wait; had had time to lurk and hide and embrace his opportunity. How could Taylor have known to have his gun concealed for that particular time? and what assurance could he have had that he could accomplish any such purpose on that evening, and he at his regular day's work day after day? He had no time to concoct and carry out such a plan. The difficulty or impossibility of getting that gun out of the house that evening in time to commit the murder, or of having it so concealed that he could get it without it showing signs of damp. The improbability of getting it back into his room; he must go, in bright moonlight, and carry that ladder back and forth, set it up against the house, open that door, put the gun in among boxes and lumber in the dark, close that door, button it, carry the ladder back, go in and up, and across through that long, dark lumber-room, get the gun through the window, in the dark, carry it to his room, and no one in the room below hear him. In the house that night were six guests, besides the usual family. How could he do all this while such a family, old and young, were in the bustle of coming home from church, and getting ready for bed? In farm houses people do not go from the common room each to his own chamber. On a bright night in Autumn, how could he have done all this and no one see or hear him? How could he have got from Graham's house, round by the peach orchard, down to McCandless' by the time that murder was committed? He could not have done it. The testimony of the Commonwealth proves an alibi.

In this report I follow the progress of Mr. McCandless' argument and give my own convictions of the testimony. After a careful attention to all the evidence, I feel that the Commonwealth has disproved its own charges. When the case opened, I though it a mere form, that his guilt was beyond doubt. When the Commonwealth closed its evidence in chief, I felt he was innocent, that some lover's ravings had been painted with an undreamed-of meaning by the tragedy which had followed, a tragedy which he had never anticipated. Mr. McCandless must have surprised his friends by the ability of his argument. It was calm, logical, conclusive. Both he and Mr. Thompson have acquitted themselves grandly; have labored assiduously, zealously, untiringly and very, very ably. Butler has always been proud of her bar, and has reason so to be. The counsel against the prisoner in this case would do very much better, and appear to much better advantage, if they were laboring for a conviction under any other than a death penalty law. Mr. Greer, the District Attorney, appears like a fish out of water. His instincts evidently tend to growth and progress, and when he got up yesterday, and in a voice all alive with quick sympathies, and all the higher principles of Christian civilization, and went to urging the enforcement of that old Jewish code, he stumbled, and hesitated, and repeated himself, as he would not have done if he had been assured in his convictions of the wisdom of the law he felt it his duty to enforce.

Mr. McJunkin opened the closing argument at twenty minutes to five o'clock. His manner was solemn and impressive. He began with an address to the jury on their especial duty.

He feels that the public would rather take to its arms the most bloody criminal than rally to the aid of the outraged and violated law. He assumed that to repeal the law of the death penalty, would be to repeal the Bible, and deprecated the flood of infidelity which must break in upon us when the old, the good and the ancient law shall be set aside. He quoted the old texts and told the jury all about cleansing the land of blood, by the blood of him that shed it. "For ten long, weary days the defendant has been fleeing from the avenger of blood, fleeing to the city of refuge. If he be guilty, God grant that he may not enter there." He defended the "stricken parents" and urged that it is necessary for them to sit in Court facing the audience and jury, asking vengeance, because at home they must meet those marks of blood, the blood of their child. [Suppose that all folks in such cases remove permanently to the Court House of their county.] There was a dead hush in the house as he drew a most touching picture of the scene of the murder, and drew tears from the afflicted mother, but failed utterly to move the father or the sister, who remembered and swore to the letters which are relied upon to heal the wounds of this afflicted family by a sticking plaster of blood. He went carefully over the testimony, assuming the guilt of the prisoner, and appeared as if he were fully convinced of the correctness of his version of the dark and bloody code. One might mistake Mr. McJunkin for an old Scotch Covenanter divine, by the impressive manner in which he spoke of the great danger of breaking the Sabbath. This part of his speech would make a good tract.

Court adjourned at six and a half o'clock.

Artist Injured.

Yesterday, about noon, an old wall, connected with Sawyer's soap factory, corner of Stephenson street and Fifth avenue, fell down. Mr. W. C. Wall, the well known artist, who was passing the place at the time, was struck by a portion of the falling debris, and quite severely injured. He received a severe gash on the forehead, several cuts on the head, and was considerably bruised upon other parts of the body. He had just recovered from a severe illness, and was out, we believe, for the first time in many weeks when the accident occurred. It is likely he will be confined to his room for some time again, but no serious consequences are anticipated.

SHOULDER BRACES.

The value of these appliances to human health, and to promote and extend human life, can scarcely be over estimated. When we contemplate the vast number of individuals who have acquired the habit of stooping, and look at the many crooked and ill-shaped persons, the usefulness of these appliances are forcibly suggested to our minds. And it is not merely to those who suffer in the deprivation of health that we speak; thousands of others who are apparently secure in its enjoyment would be compensated a thousand times by the constant wearing one of these useful, we might say necessary, articles of human apparel. The narrow and contracted chest is as much a subject for proper physiological training as is the maintaining and keeping the stomach and other vital organs in a healthful and proper condition, to duly perform their appropriate functions. Every one understands, without a newspaper admonition, that if a leg or arm be broken, an artery severed, or a rupture anywhere shows itself, that these are objects worthy of our deepest care and solicitude. Then why not, when you observe the human body becoming incurvated, the chest contracting into an hour glass shape, and the other vital powers sinking to decay—why not seek out a remedy that will correct these growing evils, which not only concern your present ease and comfort, but likewise the future prospect of yourself and those of your immediate kindred who will one day occupy your places in life? The cost in money is a mere trifle. The remuneration to the health and strength can hardly be weighed in the same balance. It ought to be remembered that the spinal column is not only of primary importance to the physical, but likewise to the mental well being. The health of the human body is as much responsible to the position of the organs, and their being in place, as it is to physic and due regulation of diet and regimen. We have known persons, hundreds of them, with narrow and hollow chests who scarcely took in air enough to vitalize half the blood, speedily restored to health without an ounce of medicine, so called, by the use of one of the Shoulder Braces. We have known others who have enlarged the capacity of the chest as much as six or seven inches in circumference by the same means, and who can doubt their utility in all cases where the tendency to consumption or any other of the diseases of the respiratory organs are at all imminent.

These Braces are sold and applied at, also all other mechanical appliances, at DR. KEYSER'S NEW MEDICINE STORE, NO. 167 LIBERTY STREET, TWO DOORS FROM ST. CLAIR, AND AT HIS CONSULTATION ROOMS, No. 120 PENN STREET, from 10 A. M. until 4 P. M. ap24

COMMON SENSE

Rules the mass of the people, whatever the misnamed and misanthropic philosophers may say to the contrary. Show them a good thing, let its merits be clearly demonstrated, and they will not hesitate to give it their most cordial patronage. The masses have already ratified the judgment of a physician concerning the virtues of HOSTETTER'S BITTERS, as may be seen in the immense quantities of this medicine that are annually sold in every section of the land. It is now recognized as greatly superior to all other remedies yet devised for diseases of the digestive organs, such as diarrhoea, dysentery, dyspepsia, and for the various fevers that arise from the derangement of those portions of the system. Hostetter's name is rapidly becoming a household word, from Maine to Texas, from the shores of the Atlantic to the Pacific. These celebrated STOMACH BITTERS have doubtless created as much sensation in the community for their remarkable cures as any other medicine extant. It is a fact that in the minds of many persons a prejudice exists against what are called patent medicines; but why should this prevent your resorting to an article that has such an array of testimony to support it as HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. Physicians prescribe it; why should you discard it? Judges, usually considered men of talent, have and do use it in their families; why should you reject it? Let not your prejudice usurp your reason, to the everlasting injury of your health. It is the only preparation of the kind that is reliable in all cases, and it is therefore worthy of the consideration of the afflicted. The BITTERS are pleasant to the taste, agreeable in their effects, and altogether valuable as a tonic or remedy for indigestion.

TO THE

MANUFACTURERS, MECHANICS,

And Business Men Generally.

SEALED PROPOSALS will be received until the 15th day of June next, by the undersigned, to employ, by hire, all the convict labor of the Tennessee State Penitentiary.
The Lessee is to take all the able bodied convicts now an hand, or who may hereafter come into the prison during his term of lease, except those needed by the State to keep up the establishment. He shall also be authorized to occupy and take charge of all the shops and workhouses in said prison, to put up such machinery as he may desire, and shall have the privilege of buying, at such prices as may be agreed upon, all the Machinery, Tools, Fixtures and Materials on hand, both finished and unfinished.
Said Lessee shall treat those hired with humanity and kindness, conforming to such rules, by-laws and regulations as may be established by the Directors, and work them not exceeding ten hours each day. For each convict so employed, the Lessee shall pay into the State Treasury the price per day bid, said payment to be made quarterly.
He shall also give bond, with approved security, in the sum of fifty thousand dollars, payable to the State of Tennessee, for the faithful performance of the undertaking hereby imposed. Said lease to continue for four years, at the end of which term a new proposal from said Lessee shall have preference for the next four years; provided he shall have faithfully discharged his obligations to the satisfaction of the Directors; said preference not to exclude proposals from others manifestly more conducive to the interests of the State.
The workshops are built in a very substantial manner, with sufficient capacity for working five or six hundred hands; well lighted and ventilated; also conveniently arranged. There is one sixty-five horse power engine, capable of running all the machinery. The machinery has all of the most modern improvements for the manufacturing of Cedar Ware, Furniture, Agricultural Implements, Wagons, &c. There is also a machine shop, containing nine lathes and two bolt machines, a blacksmith shop with nine forges, clevis machine, three trip hammers and tools complete; a foundry one hundred and forty feet long and forty-five feet wide, with flasks for making all kinds of hollow ware, plows, corn shellers, etc; also patterns for stove and other castings. Also, one building used for manufacturing bagging, containing fifteen looms, with all the necessary machinery for spinning, etc. There is also a stone shop, paint shop and dry house.
The prison buildings are beautifully located just outside of the corporation of Nashville, and within one quarter of a mile of two railroad depots and one mile of the steamboat landing.
There are now about four hundred and fifty convicts in the prison, most of whom have served some years and are skilled mechanics in their respective branches of business. The prison is under a Board of Directors, and a Warden, whose duty it is to provide for the wants of the convicts and to see that strict discipline is maintained.
Proposals may be addressed to the undersigned or Secretary of State, within case they should be indorsed "Proposals for leasing the Tennessee Penitentiary."
Any further information desired will be furnished by addressing the Directors of the Penitentiary, Nashville.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, FRIDAY, April 30, 1869.

The extreme ease in the money market is reflected by the scarcity of eastern exchange and an excess of bankable funds. Some banks are scarcely able to cover their drafts by the ordinary remittances from the west, and unless bonds are shipped or larger drafts from the west are made for shipment of produce, they will be compelled to ship greenbacks to supply the demand for exchange. Banks and bankers are now more disposed to discount liberally for their customers, and all good paper based on real transactions will be readily taken at from nine to fifteen per cent, according to the standing of the parties. The gold market gradually advanced today to 134⅜, from which it receded to 134, closing strong at 134⅜ to 134¼. The government gold was sold yesterday at 133⅝, but immediately thereafter the market advanced.

Government bonds are strong, and although the high quotations of this morning, 116¾ for 1867's, were not maintained, the foreign bankers still remain buyers, in the hope of carrying bonds at par in Europe. Speculators and dealers, however, are very cautious and think bonds above what they are worth. It is certainly a curious sight to see bonds advance with the price of gold, whilst if the government is improving, gold should go much lower. Strange it is, that even these high prices of bonds are not bringing out any sellers, and would be a proof that bonds are now actually held as investment and that the floating stock on the market is very small. Europe must now hold about two-thirds of all the United States bonds, exclusive of what is deposited by the National banks as security for their circulation. The extraordinary high prices of bonds may induce National Banks to throw up their privileges, sell their bonds and return their circulation. Such a step might benefit the whole country, since the greenbacks would then be ready for circulation, and specie payments might be resumed within a very short time by an increased greenback circulation.

Stocks were strong early this morning, but closed weaker and unsteady.

Business is rather dull yet, but no worse than might be expected under existing circumstances.

Mertz: Gold, 134¾; Silver, 126; Eighty-one's, 118½; Five Twenties, 1862, 121¾; do 1864, 117⅜; do 1865, 119¾; do 1865, Consols, 116⅛; do 1867, ——; do 1868, 116¼; Ten Forties, 108; New York Central, 77⅞; Erie, —; Reading, 96¾; Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne & Chicago Railroad, 40¼; Ohio & Mississippi, 33¾; Michigan Southern, 103⅜; Cleveland & Pittsburgh, 93¼; Chicago & Rock Island, 38¼; Chicago & North Western, 87¼; Chicago & North Western Preferred, 99; Adams Express Company, 62; Merchants Union Express, 15½; Pacific Mail, 93⅜; Western Union Telegraph Company, 43⅜; Gregory, 3,00; Quartz Hill, 1,35; Corydon, —; Smith & Parmlee, 2,65; W. [By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

NEW YORK, April 30.

The Express, in its money article, says: The event in Wall street was the further and rapid progress in the great campaign on the stock exchange. The rise in prices was very marked and general, though the N. Y. Roads took the lead on the upward turn. A consolidation of the Central and the Hudson is on the tapis, on basis of a capital of one hundred millions On the Hudson, it is said, Vanderbilt believes the consolidated Road can earn 10 per cent. Harlem, it is said, will be consolidated with Lebanon Springs and Bennington and Rutland, one-half million. The joint capital, it is reported, will be twenty-five millions, which leaves room for a large dividend. The consolidated capital of the Lake Shore combination, including Michigan Southern company, stands at thirty-three millions, and this will probably be increased, perhaps to fifty millions, and stockholders receive something in the shape of dividend.

The money market is easy at 6@7c on call, with an over ample supply. Sterling dull at 9@9¼c. Gold firmer, opened at 134⅛, and closed at 134¼. Rates paid for carrying, 6 per cent. down to 2 per and flat. Clearances, $78,000,000.

Governments are a fraction off and close and weak. Coupons of '81, 118¼@118½; do. '62, 121¾@122; do. '64, 117¾@117⅞; do. '65, 119@119¼; do. new, 116⅛@116⅜; do. 67, 116⅛@116¼; do. '68, 116⅜@116¾; 10-40s, 108@108⅞.

State bonds weak on new terms, higher on new North Carolinas and Louisianas, and steadier on the balance. Missauris, 88¼@88¾; old Tennessees, 69@69¼; new do 67½@67¾; new North Carolinas, 55@55½; Virginias, 62¾@63. The Stock market during the morning was buoyant; Central took the lead, rising to 177¼ on statements from Albany of a report to the Senate of a bill legalizing the 80 per cent. certificates, and of one for consolidating certain railroads. Harlem rose to 151@151½; Hudson, 158; M. S. to 103¼@103¾, Rock Island to 139½, Ohio and Mississippi to 34, Fort Wayne to 140@140¼, Northwestern common to 87½@87¾, and do. preferred to 99¾@99½. Erie was pressed for sale at the lowest rate for some years. The rest of the list was strong, but without any noticeable feature. In the afternoon stocks were lower throughout on sales to realize profits. Reading fell to 90 on the report that the strike at Scranton mines is likely to extend to the whole anthracite region. At a later hour again there were firm prices, about to the highest figures of the day, with the exception of some western roads, on which the previous decline had been marked, Rock Island and Ohio and Mississippi. The market finally closed strong, the demand continuing active to the end of the day, particularly for New York Central, which left off at 177¾ to 177¼.

Five-Thirty Prices.—Cumberland, 30@33; Wells Express, 35¾@36; American Express, 41@41¾; Adams Express, 61¾ 62½; United States Express, 62¼@62¼; Merchants Union Express, 15¼; Quicksilver, 20½@21¼; Canton, 61½@62½; Pacific Mail 93¼@93½; Western Union Telegraph, 43¾@43⅝; Mariposa, 19¾; preferred, 43⅝@43¾; New York Central, 177¾@178; Erie, 29¼@29⅞; do pref'd, 54½@53½; Hudson, 157@157¼; Harlem, 137@137½; Reading, 96¼@96⅝; Terre Haute, 30½@40¼; do preferred, 68¾@69¾; Wabash, 73¼@73½; do pref'd, 78@78¾; St. Paul, 78⅝@78¾; do pref'd, 87¼@87¾; Ft. PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, FRIDAY, April 30, 1869.

The most important feature we have to notice in a general way, is a stronger feeling in regard to Flour, which is occasioned by a slight advance in Wheat. It is not likely to amount to much, however, as the country is full of both Flour and Wheat, and the prospect for the new crop could not be any better. In other articles there is nothing worthy of special notice.

APPLES—Scarce, especially in good condition, and with a steady demand prices are fully sustained, ranging at $5@8 per bbl, as to quality.

APPLE BUTTER—90@$1 per gallon.

BUTTER—Is in fair demand but unchanged at 33@35 for good to prime and 38 for choice.

BEANS—Dull at $3@3,25.

CHEESE—Sales of new Western Reserue at 15@20, as to quality, and New York Goshen at 24@25.

CARBON OIL—Is quoted in a jobbing way at 29@30.

CORNMEAL—$1.75@1,80 per cwt.

DRIED FRUIT—Peaches in moderate demand at 13½@14 for quarters and 18@19 for halves. Apples, 13@15, as to quality.

EGGS—Dull but unchanged at 16@17; receipts increasing slightly.

FEATHERS—A shade firmer, and we now quote live geese feathers at 80 to the trade, and the usual advance in a retail way.

FLOUR — As already intimated, is stronger, in consequence of the advance in Wheat in Chicago, but as yet there is no advance in this market. We continue to quote Spring Wheat brands, $6,50@7, Winter Wheat, $7,50@8. Rye flour, $7@7,25.

GRAIN—Sales of good to prime red Wheat at $1,45@1,50. Oats 0rm, with sales on track at 70@71, and in store at 73@75. Corn, under the influence of increased receipts, is hardly so strong, though, as yet, unchanged; ear, 80@82, and shelled, 77@80. Rye may be fairly quoted at $1,40. But little doing in Barley.

HAY—Baled continues dull, with a supply considerably in excess of the demand; we continue to quote, on wharf, at $27@30, as to quality.

HOMINY—$5,75@6 per bbl.

HEMP—$215@220 per ton.

LARD OIL—Sales No. 1 Extra at $1,52@1,53. and No. 2 at $1,23@1,25.

MAPLE MOLASSES—Sales in gallon jugs at $1,50@1,75.

PROVISIONS—Are steady but without material change. Sales at 14 for Shoulders; 17¾ for plain, 19 for sugar cured Hams, and 20 for canvassed do. Ribbed Sides, 16½; Clear do, 17¾. Dried Beef, 20½@21. Lard, 19 in tierces and 20@20½ in kegs. Mess Pork, $32.

POTATOES—Continue very dull and the market is pretty well glutted: sales on wharf and track at 60, and in store at 65@70.

PEANUTS—Quoted at 11 cts.

SEEDS—Clover Seed is quoted at $9@9,50. There is not enough doing in Timto establish a price, and there is little or none in this market.

SALT—May be quoted at $1,83@1,85 by the car load, and $1,95@2 for small lots in store.

TALLOW.—Is dull and drooping and rendered cannot be quoted above 10½@10⅝.

PITTSBURGH IRON MARKET.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, FRIDAY, April 30, 1869.

The Iron market has undergone no important change during the past week; there are no new characteristics worthy of special notice. The demand for metal is light, but with no accummulation and limited receipts, prices are pretty well sustained. In regards to Bar Iron and Nails, the market remains substantially as last week.

LANDING A TROUT.

From Murray's "Adirondacks."

We sat for several minutes in silence, watching. At last, some fifteen rods away, a magnificent fish shot up out of the water after a butterfly which chanced to be winging its way across the lake, and missing it only a few inches, fell back with a splash into the very ripple he made in rising.

"Now!" shouted John, as he sent the light boat skimming over the water, "give him the feathers, and if he takes, sink the hook to the very shank into his jaws."

I pitched the coil into the air, and by the time it had fairly straightened itself out the boat was in reach of the wake; and, obedient to the quick turn of the wrist, the huge fly leaped ahead. It had not reached the surface by a yard, when the water parted and out came the trout, his mouth wide open, quivering from head to tail with the energy of the leap; missed, as he had before, and fell back flat upon his back.

"Quick, quick! cast away!" shouted John, as, with a stroke of the paddle, he sent the boat sheering off, to give me room for the cast.

Feeling that there was not an instant to lose, by a sudden jerk I caused the fly to mount straight up into the air, trusting to the motion of the boat to straighten the slack as it fell. John understood the motion; the boat flew round as on a pivot, and glided backward under the reversed stroke. It was well done, as only John could do it; nor was it a second too soon; for as the tuft of gay plumes alighted amidst the ripples, the huge head of the trout came out of water, his mouth opened, and, as the feathers disappeared between his teeth, I struck with all my might. Not one rod in twenty would have stood that blow. The fish was too heavy even to be turned an inch. The line sung, and water flew out of the compressed braids, as though I had sunk the hook into an oak beam.

Reader, did you ever land a trout? I do not ask if you ever jerked some poor little fellow out of a brook three feet across, with a pole six inches around at the butt, and so heavy as to require both hands and feet well braced to hold it out, No, that's not landing a trout. But did you ever sit in a boat, with nine ounces of lance-wood for a rod, and two hundred feet of braided silk in your double acting reef, and hook a trout whose strain brought tip and butt together as you checked him in some wild flight, and tested yonr quivering line from gut to reel-knot? No one knows what game there is in a trout, unless he has fought it out, matching such a rod against a three pound fish, with forty feet of water underneath, and a clear unimpeded sweep around him! Ah, then it is that one discovors what will and energy lie within the mottled skin of a trout, and what a miracle of velocity he is when aroused.—I love the riffle, and I have looked along the sights and held the leaping blood back by an effort of will, steadying myself for the shot when my veins fairly tingled with the exhilerating excitement of the moment; but if one should ask me what is my conception of pure physical happiness, I should assure him that the highest bodily beautitude I ever expect to reach is, on some future day, when the clear sun is occasionally veiled by clouds, to sit in a boat once more upon that little lake, with John at the paddle, and match again a Conroy rod aguinst a three-pound trout. That's what I call happiness.

Well, as I said, I struck; and, as we afterwards discovered, the huge salmon-hook was buried to the shank and the nerves which lie at the root of a trout's tongue. Then came a fight for the mastery such as never before had I waged with anything that swims. Words should have life in them to depict the scene. Quick as a flash, before I had fairly recovered my balance, partially lost by the energy with which I struck, the trout started, and before I could get a pressure upon the line, not twenty yards were left on the reel. A quick stroke from John, and the boat shot to one side; and bearing stoutly on him, tasking the rod to the last ounce of resistance, I slowly swayed him about and recovered a little slack. After a few short sweeps he doubled on the line and shot straight for the boat as an arrow from a bow.

"Double, and be hanged to you!" shouted John, as he shied the light shell to one side and swung it round so as to keep me facing the fish. "If you get under this boat it will be because this paddle breaks."

Failing in his attempt to run under us, he dove to the bottom. "Let him rest a moment," said John; "recover your line; you'll need it all when he rises. He's big and ugly, and his next rush will be like lightning."

After I had stowed away some forty yards of line upon the reel, winding it on hard and evenly, so that it would render well, I began to feel of the fish. The first pressure elicited only a shake. At the next he described a circle, still keeping to the bottom, then came again to a standstill. He acted ugly. I felt that when the rush came it would try nerve and tackle alike. Enjoining John to watch the fish and favor me all he could, and by no means to let him pass under the boat, I gave a quick, sharp jerk. My arm was still in the air and the rod unstraightened, when I caught a gleam far down below me, and before I had time to wink the huge fellow parted the water almost within reach of my arm, and when high up in mid-air he shook himself, the crystal drops were flung into my very face. Perhaps I shall live long enough to forget the picture, as that trout for an instant hung in the air, his blue back and azure sides spotted with gold and agate, his fins edged with snowy white, his eyes protruding, gills distended, the leader hanging from his jaws, while a shower of pearly drops were shaken from his quivering sides. He fell;—but while still in air the boat glided backward, and when he touched the water I was thirty feet away and ready for his rush. It came. And as he passed us, some forty feet off, he clove the water as a bolt from a cross-bow might cleave the air. Possibly for five minutes the phrenzy lasted. Not a word was uttered. The whiz of the line through the water, the whir of the flying reel, and an occasional grunt from John as the fish doubled on the boat, were the only sounds to be heard. When, suddenly, in one of his wildest flights, the terribly taxed rod straightened itself out with a spring, the pressure ceased, the line slackened, and the fish lay on the bottom. Wiping the sweat from my brow, I turned to John and said, "What do you think of that?"

"Mr. Murray," replied John, laying the paddle down and drawing the sleeve of his woolen shirt across his forehead, beaded with perspiration—"Mr. Murray, that fish is ugly; if he should get the line over his back, he'd smash the rod like a pipestem!"

"He won't get it over his back," replied I. "Ready with your paddle; he's getting too much breath."

"But I say," said John, looking affectionately at the rod as he took up the paddle, "If I was in your place, and he did get the line over his shoulder, I would part my tackle before I smashed that rod."

"I won't do either, John;" and as I answered I gave a jerk, and the trout started again. But why repeat? Why tell of flights and rushes which followed? Twice did he break the surface a hundred feet away, flinging himself out like a black bass. Once did he partially get the leader over his back and dashed away like lightning; while John, anxious to save so true a rod from ruin, shouted to me, "Part the gut!" But who ever knew a fisherman, when his blood is up, refuse a risk to save the game? I screamed to John to shoot the boat one side; and when the last foot of silk was given I advanced the butt. The heavy fish and pliant rod were pitted one against the other. Three days later, in another struggle, the old rod parted; but this time it triumphed. For a moment the quivering tip rattled upon the bars of the reel. The fish struggled and shook himself, but the tenacious fibres would not part. He ceased to battle, came panting to the surface, and rolled over upon his side. The boat shot toward him and, as it glided by John passed the landing-net beneath him, and the brave fighter lay upon the bottom board. His tail, across its base, measured five inches; and his length from tip to tip were seventeen inches and three-quarters.

The Tools of Great Workmen.

It is not tools that make the workman, but the trained skill and preseverance of the man himself. Indeed, it is proverbial that bad workmen never yet had good tools. A student once asked a great artist by what wonderful process he mixed his colors. "I mix them with my brains, sir," was his reply. It is the same with every workman who would excel. Ferguson made a wonderful thing—his wooden clock, that accurately measured the hours—by a common pen-knife, a tool in everybody's hand, but then everybody is not a Ferguson. A pan of water and two thermometers were the tools by which Dr. Black discovered latent heat. A prism, a lens and a sheet of pasteboard enabled Newton to unfold the composition of light, and the origin of color. An eminent foreign savant once called upon Dr. Wollaston and requested to be shown over the laboratories in which science had been enriched by so many important discoveries. The Doctor took him into a little studio, and pointing to an old tea tray on the table, containing a few watch-glasses, test-papers, a small balance and a blow-pipe, said: "This is all the laboratory I have." Stothard learned the art of combining colors by closely studying butterflies' wings. He would often say that no one knew how much he owed these tiny insects. A burnt stick and a barn door served Wilkie in lieu of pencil and canvass. Bewick first practised drawing on the cottage walls of his native village, which he covered with his sketches in chalk; and Banjamin West made his first brushes out of a cat's tail. Ferguson laid himself down in the fields at night in a blanket and made a map of the heavenly bodies, by means of a thread with small beads on it, stretched between his eyes and the stars. Franklin first robbed the thunder-cloud of its lightning by means of a kite made with two cross-sticks and a silk handkerchief. Watt made his first model of the condensing steam engine out of an old anatomist's syringe, used to inject the arteries previous to dissection. Gifford worked his first problem in mathematics, when he was a cobbler's apprentice, upon small scraps of leather, which he beat smooth for the purpose; while Rittenhouse, the astronomer, first calculated the eclipse on his plow handles.—American Artisan.

Washington Items.

The President has formally tendered the Brazilian mission to Henry Blow, and he has accepted. There is every possibility that Sickles will go to Spain.

There is one continuous stream of applications and intercessions with the President for the United States Judgeships under the recent Judiciary bill. He now informs all who shall call upon him for that purpose that he shall not make up his mind or give any promises upon the subject until next winter, when he shall be ready to make nominations as provided for in the law; that he will, in the meantime, receive any suggestions or recommendations that may be offered, and from them make his selections. It is most likely, however, that Attorney General Hoar will play a very important part in making these nominations.

The President, under the authority given him in the last Indian Appropriation bill, has designated the following named gentlemen to act as members of the unpaid commission of ten to aid him and the Interior Department in carrying out his Indian policy: E. S. Tobey, Boston; Wm. E. Dodge, New York; Geo. H. Stuart and Wm. Welsh, Philadelphia; F. R. Brunot, Pittsburgh; J. Farwell, Chicago, and Robert Campbell, St. Louis. These gentlemen will give the principal part of their services this season to work in the Sioux reservation, on the Upper Mississippi river.

AT SHAWANO, Wisconsin, on the 12th inst., the work of breaking the "big landing" was commenced. The Journal says this landing is probably the largest in the world. The bank from top to water's edge is about one hundred feet. It is about a hundred rods long and contains over eight million feet of logs. Great pains were taken in putting the logs in, so that, were they no heavier than a man could easily handle, they could not be packed any closer. It is one vast closely packed log heap, seventy-five feet high, ten rods wide and one hundred rods long.

AN AFFRAY occured on Friday last, near Tabor, Iowa, which resulted in the death of two men, named King and Palmer. There was some difficulty between them and a man named Briggs, and the two rode up to Mr. B.'s place with the intention of assaulting him. The latter ran away, but was pursued. Mr. B., finding escape impossible, shot, striking Palmer in the neck, causing his death almost immediately. King still following, he fired again, killing him. It is believed that Briggs will be discharged on the ground of justifiable homicide.

CORRESPONDENCE.

TO MISS AUGUSTA L. DARGON:

The undersigned, entertaining a high regard for your personal worth as an accomplished Lady, no less than for your widely recognized abilities, representing many of your friends, fellow-boarders and other citizens of Pittsburgh, respectfully ask that you will give one or more Public Readings and Recitations in our city prior to your contemplated departure for the East.

In making this request we are actuated by a profound respect for your standing among us as well in public as in private, and we desire to extend to our own citizens the same gratification and delight which have attended your Readings in neighboring cities.

ALLEGHENY INSURANCE COMPANY OF PITTSBURGH.

CITY AND SUBURBAN.

THE GAZETTE is furnished in the city the six days of the week for 15 cents per week; by mail, $8 per annum: 3 mos., $2

Committed.—Joseph Sewell was committed to jail yesterday by Alderman Shore, for a further hearing on a charge of larceny, preferred against him by Henry Seaton.

Co-operative Life Insurance Company.—For the convenience of those who are occupied through the doy, the office of this Company, 128 Smithfield street, will be open this evening till nine o'clock.

The election for County School Superintendent will be held on Tuesday next in this city. The candidates, so far as announced, are Messrs. A. T. Douthitt, Thomas E. Wakeham and Thomas A. Neill.

Serious Fall.—Yesterday morning the end wall of an old brick house, standing on Stevenson street, in the sixth ward, gave way and fell to the side walk. Just as the accident, Mr. John Wall was passing the place and a portion of the wall fell upon him, injuring him quite seriously.

Assault and Battery.—Andrew Gisinger made information, yesterday, before Justice Barker, of South Pittsburgh, against Louis Sahner, charging him with assault and battery. He alleges that the defendant struck his (deponent's) son on the head with his fist. A warrant was issued.

Resulted Fatally.—The unknown man injured on the C. & P. Railroad on Wednesday, died of his injuries at the Mayor's office, yesterday, about four o'clock. He remained unconscious from the time of the accident until death resulted. Nothing that would lead to his identity has, as yet, been ascertained.

The Musical Monthly.—We have received No. 2 of Howe's Musical Monthly, containing eleven pieces of first-class instrumental music and ten songs with piano accompaniment. The Monthly is published by Elias Howe, No. 103 Court street, Boston, and furnished to subscribers at $3,00 per year or 35 cents per copy.

Severe Fall.—Yesterday morning, David Watson, an employe of the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne & Chicago Railway Company, fell from a freight train on the Railroad bridge spanning the Allegheny river, and was severely injured. He was taken to his home on Fayette street, Sixth ward, Allegheny. The physician in attendance has no fears for his recovery.

Personal.—Mr. John L. Donaldson, who has for a number of years graced the Collector's office as Chief Bond Clerk, has accepted a position of trust in the wholesale liquor establishment of Smithdt & Friday. Mr. D., through his courtesy and efficience, while in the Collector's office, made hosts of friends. He has the best wishes of all for his future success and prosperity.

In Working Order.—The Fire Alarm Telegraph, of Allegheny city, has again been placed in complete working order, and to prevent any further tampering with the boxes a new lock has been provided for each box, and keys distributed to responsible parties only. We presume there will be no further difficulty with it now, as there is no reason why it should not work satisfactorily if properly attended.

Enterprise, Such as that of Joseph Horne & Co., must receive its own reward. Look at their advertisement of this day. Their constant stream of fresh supplies swell to a flood. One hundred cases new hats and bonnets in one day. Perhaps only fifty will arrive to-morrow. The stock now opening embraces shapes never before offered in this market, and an endless variety of French flowers, ribbons, bonnet and hat frames, and millinery goods, in quantity and variety without stint, wholesale and retail, at eastern prices. Of such an establishment any city might justly boast. Reader, go and see if all this be not so.

Storekeepers Appointed.

Upon the recommendation of Collector Davis the following persons have been appointed storekeepers for the Twenty-second District. They received notification of their appointment yesterday, and will enter upon their duties as soon as the necessary bonds are filed: Jas. Mulligan, S. J. Parkinson, Johnson G. West, Lewis Futz, Louis Houch, John A. Gill, William Steinacher, J. L. Graham, Ralph J. Richardson, W. S. McClure, George B. Caven, John Wilson.

A Vicious Cow.

Maria Davis made information before Justice Heisel, yesterday, charging Geo. Lutz with obtaining money under false and fraudulent representations. She alleges that she purchased a cow from defendant, for which she paid the sum of fifty dollars, and that defendant represented said cow to be quiet and gentle. The cow was delivered in the afternoon, and when the deponent attempted to milk the cow in the evening she found her vicious and dangerous, so much so that she would not allow the deponent to milk her. A warrant was issued for the arrest of Lutz.

Attempted Burglary.

Some time during Wednesday night, an attempt was made to rob the grocery store of Mr. John Hood, on Beaver Avenue, near Rebecca street, Sixth ward, Allegheny. The thieves forced open a shutter in the rear part of the store, but after proceeding thus far in their work seemed to have been frightened off either by the approach of some person or the barking of a dog in the store. Yesterday morning a couple of carpet sacks, a brace and two augers were found beneath a pile of logs on the sidewalk in the vicinity. There is no clue to the would-be burglars.

Mortuary Report.

Doctor W. Sniveley, Physician of Board of Health, reports the following interments in the City of Pittsburgh from April 18th, to April 25th, 1869:

The Burial of Lane—A Point Disposed Of—Where the Murderer Rests.

As we stated, Louis Lane, previous to his execution, requested Father Kerr to take charge of his body and have it buried in St. Mary's Cemetery. Sheriff Cluley had previously made arrangements to have the remains interred in Hillsdale Cemetery, but upon Lane informing him of his preference, he immediately assented and changed his arrangements.

During the afternoon Dr. Le Moyne, on behalf of the medical fraternity of Pittsburgh, requested that the body be delivered to them for "the advancement of medical science," under the provisions of the act of the 18th of March, 1867. Sheriff Cluley declined to accede to the request until he had consulted his attorney, Thos. M. Marshall, Esq., and the body was retained in the county jail until yesterday morning.

The act above alluded to provides "that any public officer in the city of Philadelphia and county of Allegheny, having charge thereof, or control over the same, shall give permission to any physician or surgeon, of the same city and county, upon the request made therefor, to take the bodies of deceased persons, required to be buried at the public expense, to be by him used, within the State, for the advancement of medical science, preference being given to medical schools, public and private, and said bodies to be distributed to and among the same equitably, the number assigned to each being apportioned to that of its students. Provided, however, that if the deceased person, during his or her last sickness, of his or her own accord, shall request to be buried; or if any person claiming to be, and satisfying the proper authorities that he is of kindred to the deceased, shall ask to have the body for burial, it shall be surrendered for interment; or if such deceased person was a stranger or traveler, who died suddenly, the body shall be buried and not handed over as aforesaid."

The Sheriff was of opinion that as Lane had previously made a request as to the disposition of his body, he was not bound by the law to grant the request of Dr. Le Moyne.

He consulted Mr. Marshall, and the result of the interview was that Mr. Cluley directed Warden Scandrett to deliver the remains to Father Kerr whenever he should call for them. At about half past ten the Rev. Father came to the Ross street entrance with a carriage and and a hearse, and had the body conveyed to St. Mary's, he himself, in company with another gentleman, accompanying the hearse, in the carriage. The body was interred with appropriate ceremonies. The fatal gibbet was removed yesterday morning.

Lane intimated to a visitor that he would be in hell instead of a cell of the jail, had it not been for the religious influence exerted over him by his spiritual adviser, thus insinuating that he would have committed suicide had he not been taught the awfulness of such a crime.

Alleged False Pretence.

Wm. Hespenheide, merchant tailor on St. Clair street, made information before Alderman Donaldson, yesterday, against J. P. Worth, for false pretences. Hespenheide alleges Worth came to his establishment in the early part of 1867, in company with another man, and purchased a lot of goods on credit, by representing that he was the owner of considerable real estate in the vicinity of Sewickley. About a year afterwards, it is further alleged, he came baek again and purchased another lot of goods, this time stating that he had just bought a large farm opposite Sewickley, upon the improvement of which he was expending all his ready cash, but that in a few months he would have sufficient money to pay both bills, and thus a second time he obtained credit. His creditor states, however, that after waiting until the time specified had expired, he entered suit and obtained judgment against Worth, but when the Sheriff proceeded to Sewickley to make a levy on the property supposed to be owned by him, it was discovered that no property of any kind belonged to the man and that he was utterly worthless, at least in a pecuniary sense, hence the information. The accused was arrested and gave bail in the sum of three hundred dollars for a hearing Wednesday next.

Miss Dargon as a Reader.

In another column we publish a very interesting correspondence between Miss Agustus L. Dargon and a number of our most prominent fellow citizens, requesting her to enter a new field as reader. The high histrionic genius of this lady, her ability to interpret the more difficult parts of the drama, her grace, modesty and lady-like bearing in both public and private life have found for her thousands of admirers, not only among theatregoers, but other representatives of the intellectual community. The call is one of the most respectable ever tendered an actress in this city, and we feel assured that the worthy gentlemen writing in it, have not miataken the enterprise, zeal and merit of the lady complimented, and that while they may be instrumental in depriving the theatrical boards of an accomplished representative, still the rostrum will be materially strengthened by the accession made.

The Lecture Committee of the Mercantile Library Association have kindly consented to take charge of all the arrangements for the introduction of Miss Dargon to the public as a reader, and have fixed next Thursday as the evening for the entertainment, at the Academy. The programme will be announced next Monday morning.

Raid on the Mansion House—The Proprietor, Bar Tender and Four Female Boarders Arrested.

For some weeks past it has been currently reported that the Mansion House, a hotel on Liberty street, in the Third ward, was not conducted according to the rules of strict propriety, and yesterday an information was made before the Mayor against the proprietor, J. S. Robinson, charging him with keeping a disorderly house. A warrant was issued, and last night, between eleven and twelve o'clock a squad of police made a raid on the house and arrested Robinson, the proprietor, John Hill, the bar tender, and Maggie Thompson, Jennie Hite, Margaret Anderson and Anna Wilson, girls who boarded at the house. The girls were locked up for a hearing, and Robinson and Hill were released on depositing a sum of money for their appearance at seven o'clock this morning. The arrest was made, we understand, under the authority of the new ordinance recently passed by Councils relative to disorderly houses.

Clothing Stolen.

J. S. Harper made informatiod before Alderman Lynch, yesterday, against William Byerly for the larceny of a silk velvet vest and and a pair of pantaloons. Harper keeps a news depot on Fifth avenue, opposite the Court House. He alleges he employed Byerly to paper a room in which the articles alleged to be stolen were hanging, and that he missed them immediately after the job was finished and the workmen had gone away, hence the information. A warrant was issued.

The Whiskey Fall.

The loss sustained by Joseph Finch & Co., in consequence of the accident at their bonded warehouse in South Pittsburgh, Thursday, an account of which we published yesterday, will not be so heavy as was at first anticipated. There were only about three hundred barrels of whiskey precipitated from the fifth story to the cellar, and it is presumed that not more than fifty out of that number have been destroyed, and the contents lost. A number of workmen were engaged yesterday in securing the building against further accident, preparatory to repairing the damage done. The east wall of the building is bulged considerably, but it is thought it can be forced back to its place by braces and "hog chains."

The whisky from the broken barrels is flowing slowly from the cellar, and a number of boys excavated a hole in the earth between the warehouse and the river, which was, in a few minutes, filled with whisky. The boys, after drinking freely of it, filled a number of bottles and started for their homes, but they had remained too long and took too much liquor, and were able to proceed but a short distance from the warehouse, when they laid down and went to sleep, and two or three of them were carried home in a beastly state of intoxication.

An Ancient Bill.

The following bill appears on the records in the Commissioners' office, for expenses incurred in the execution of Thomas Dunning, the first man hung in this county:

The county of Allegheny Dr. to Thos. Ewalt, Sheriff:

1793.	£	s.	d.
January 26, To the execution of Thomas Dunning	5	00	00
To the gibbet	2	5	00
" the Coffin	1	2	6
" the grave digging	0	7	6
" hauling the gibbet	0	2	6
" hauling the man to the gibbet	0	5	0
" liquor advanced to the man for burial	0	8	10
" pay the executioner	1	6	00

This was a new predicament in which the Commissioners were placed, and they helped themselves out of it by appointing an auditing committee as follows: The Commissioners of Allegheny county request Colonel Neville, Mr. Geo. Adams and Mr. Hugh Alexander, to examine the above account and state their opinion, as they are at a loss to know in what manner to proceed, as it is a new matter to them."

"We are not acquainted with the nature of the within bill, but suppose it ought to be paid, as it was for disagreeable kind of service.

P. D. NEVILLE,
GEO. ADAMS,
H. ALEXANDER."

Money Lost.

James M. Ayers, a soldier who lost a leg in the service of his country, was so unfortunate yesterday as to lose his pocketbook, containing twenty-two dollars, all the money he possessed. He states that it was lost either in Johnson's barbershop, in the Twelfth ward, or in car No. 39 on the Citizens Passenger Railway. He is a young man, and the only support of a widowed mother. By his industry and economy he saved money sufficient to purchase a wooden leg, and since obtaining it has been employed in the capacity of night watchman at Park Bros.' steel works, in the Twelfth ward. He had just received the twenty-two dollars in payment for service rendered, yesterday morning, and started to purchase a suit of clothes. Any person finding the same will please leave it with his employer.

Tableaux.

We understand that a number of the loveliest young ladies of our city, assisted by several well known gentlemen, have been for some time engaged in preparing for and rehearsing a number of tableaux vivants, which they intend to exhibit in Liberty Hall, East Liberty, some time next week. As they are all well known in the very highest social circles here, we have no doubt their beautiful entertainment will be witnessed by so large a number of people that the amount realized will be large enough to be of great benefit to the charity to which it is to be devoted. Considerable excitement is already felt in fashionable circles on the subject, and conjectures, as to who will be who, are frequent.

Lightning Rods.

On the 28th of July, 1759, a flash of lightning burnt all the wood work of the Strasburg Cathedral, and it was proposed to put conductors on it, but the expense was considered too great. Shortly afterwards it was struck three times within an hour, and damaged to the extent of a million of dollars. In July, 1834, it was again struck, when copper rods were placed on it at a cost of $3,000. On the 10th of July, 1843, it was struck once more, but the rods saved it. The Munson Copper Rod, manufactured by Lockhart & Co., at 234 Penn street, is no doubt the best conductor ever invented. It costs no more than other rods. DW

If House Keepers Wish a good and cheap set of Dishes, please call on Beggs & McGraw, who take great pains to please their customers.

The Hat Parlor.

Mr. J. D. Ramaley, the well known hat dealer on Liberty street, has opened a new and elegant hat store at No. 22 Fifth avenue, under the title of the "Hat Parlor." The name is extremely appropriate, and the establishment is in every respect in keeping with it. The room has been splendidly refitted and elegantly furnished and is stocked with an entire new stock of goods of the very latest styles bought from first hands. We desire to call particular attention to the stock of silk hats of the latest spring styles to be found at the "Hat Parlor," and would recommend those who wish to see and know what the latest styles are to call and see them, as Mr. R. will make this branch a specialty. Mr. Ramaley, who will superintend this elegant establishment in person, will make it a point to keep up with the changes in styles and will at all times, buying as he does, from manufacturers and importers, be enabled to furnish his customers the latest style of hats as soon as they appear in the Eastern cities. His stock comprises everything usually found in a first class hat and cap store, including both men's and boys' hats and caps. Step into the "parlor" and see the styles, as Mr. B. McClain, the gentlemanly and efficient salesman, deems it a pleasure to show goods.

The Age of Progress.

That there is an age of progress, is a self-evident fact, undeniable and uncontroverted. It is apparent in every branch of art, science and trade, and in no particular branch of industry is the fact more strongly brought to our notice than in the manufacture of Queensware. If any of our readers should question this assertion, we would refer them to the establishment of S. M. Kier & Co, No. 363 Liberty street, manufacturers of Queensware and pottery, where will be found one of the largest assortments of Queensware in the city, and of a quality equal to the best European manufacturers. This excellent ware is all manufactured at the Keystone Pottery in this city, and is sold at prices far below those asked for eastern ware of the same quality.

A Divided House.

Patrick Boyle and John Schafer, with their respective families, occupy a house formerly known as the Ballentine House, near the Copper Works, Soho. They do not seem to agree very well, however. Yesterday ill feeling was manifested to such an extent that Patrick was moved to call at Alderman McMasters' office and lodge information before that official against Schafer and his wife for surety of the peace. The allegations contained in the information were that the Schafer's had become so violent in their hostility toward the youthful Boyles, as to frequently threaten them with annihilation. Warrants for the arrest of the accused were issued.

Segars and Tobacco.

Mr. Jno. Megraw, No. 45 Hand street, has on hand and for sale a large and superior stock of tobacco and segars of the very best brands. The reputation of this well known establishment, and Mr. Megraw's long experience in business, are sufficient guarantee to the public that any article purchased at his store will be in strict accordance with what it is represented to be. We therefore take pleasure in recommending such business houses to the favorable notice of our many readers, fully knowing whereof we speak. Superior inducements to retail dealers are presented by Mr. Megraw, and they will find it to their advantage to give him a call.

Amusements.

OPERA HOUSE.—Mr. Brougham's entertainment will close at the Opera House this evening. He will appear at the matinee and evening entertainment in the "Lottery of Life." Monday evening "Humpty Dumpty" will be placed on the boards.

PITTSBURGH THEATRE.—Sam Collyer took a benefit at the Old Theatre last night, on which occasion every available foot of room in the building was occupied. Sam. and his pupils are drawing crowds. The matinee this afternoon and entertainment this evening will afford those not having seen him an opportunity to de so.

Larceny of a Cart.

Yesterday morning, Mr. Thomas O'Rourke, contractor, missed a new cart from the yard attached to his premises on Gibbon street, Eighth ward. He at once commenced a search, and in a few hours discovered the missing vehicle in the possession of James McNally, who, when questioned, seemed not to be able to give a definite or satisfactory answer as to how he obtained it. Mr. O'Rourke accordingly lodged information before Alderman McMasters against him for larceny, upon which a warrant was issued. The cart is valued at seventy-five dollars.

The Fifth Avenue Bank of Pittsburgh

The books will remain open for subscription at the following times and places till the next meeting, which is called for next Tuesday night, at the room where session was held last night.

Saturday, May 1st, at McIntyre's drug store, corner of Pride street and Fifth avenue.

Monday, May 3d, at Frank Seibert's grocery, No. 296 Fifth avenue.

Tuesday, May 4th, at Alderman Morrow's, Fifth avenue, opposite Chatham street.

Books! Books!

The Book and Stationery Store of Col. J. D. Egan on sixth avenue, near Smithfield street, contains one of the largest and best selected stocks of Books and Stationery to be found in the city. He has also on hand a large stock of second hand books, containing many ancient and valuable works, which will be sold cheap for cash, and he pays the highest cash price for second hand books. On his counter will be found all the latest Literary Publications, Perodicals and Magazines.

Teeth.

Why do you suffer for days and weeks with the toothache? Why not rather go to Dr. Gillespee, take his improved laughing gas, (which is perfectly safe,) and have them extracted without the least pain, and, if needed, get a set of his superior artificial teeth, which he offers at the lowest price, and warrants them in every case. His office is 248 Penn Street.

The Handsomest and Cheapest set of Dishes can be bought at Beggs & McGraw. Please call and examine wether you wish to buy or not. Don't forget the place, No. 10 Diamond, Allegheny.

Not Satisfied with administering to the mere comfort of their guests, Messrs. Rice, of the AMERICAN HOUSE, Boston, have fitted their billiard halls with the best material in the country.

Of Great Interest to Manufacturers, Mechanics and Business Men Generally.

On our fifth page this morning will be found an advertisement inviting sealed proposals until the fifteenth day of next June, for all the convict labor of the Penitentiary of Tennessee. The opportunity presented for a judicious investment is very unusual and enticing, and our manufacturers should read with special care the advertisement. The lease will extend four years, with preference to lessee to continue the next term of four years ensuing. The workshops are all complete and well appointed, and have capacity to run five or six hundred hands. There are now about one hundred and fifty convicts in the Penitentiary, many of whom are already skilled laborers. The Penitentiary is healthfully located just outside of Nashville, with abundant facilities for shipment of manufactures. The terms of the letting are so just and reasonable that we shall be much surprised if none of our enterprising citizens put in proposals. Any further information necessary can be secured by addressing Messrs. Shane, Murrell and Robinson, Directors of the Tennessee Penitentiary, Nashville, or C. J. Doherty, Esq., Chief Clerk of the institution.

Queries.

Reader, if your tailor makes you a badly fitting suit, do you patronize him a second time?

If your butcher sells you tough or tainted meat, do you go to him again?

If your grocer sells you roasted chicory for his best Rio coffee, do you go for more?

If your milk man gives you chalk and water instead of cream, do you contiuue your patronage?

Now, if your dentist has furnished you with a set of teeth which you cannot eat with, are notable to talk with, and dare not sleep with, what should you do? Why go to Dr. Spencer, at 254 Penn street, who always makes his work to suit, and get a set with which you may swear at the tailor, scold the milk man, abuse the grocer, and chew the toughest beefsteak that can be got up, and then go to bed with the assurance that when you rise your teeth will be in your mouth and not in your stomach.

At the popular "Corner Dry Goods Store" of Richard Deakers, Fifth avenue and Grant street, will be found a splendid stock of carpets at very popular prices, such as might have been considered cheap previous to the war. The stock is large and the selection fine, and we urge our lady readers to visit the carpet room of the Corner Dry Goods Store before purchasing elsewhere. An admirable stock of dry goods has also just been received and offered at the usually reasonable prices which have long made the house popular.

Chapped Hands, face and all roughness of the skin, certainly cured by using the Juniper Tar Soap, made by Caswell, Hazard & Co., New York. It surpasses all other remedies as it will prevent roughness of the skin if used during cold weather. It is easily applied, avoiding all the trouble of the greasy compounds now in use. It can be used by ladies with the most tender skin, without irritation or pain, making it soft and clear. Sold by the druggists generally. wT

The best and Original Tonic of Iron, Phosphorus and Calisaya, known as Caswell, Mack & Co's Ferro Phosphorated Elixir of Calisaya Bark. The Iron restores color to the blood, the Phosphorus renews waste of the nerve tissue, and the Calisaya gives a natural healthful tone to the digestive organs, thereby curing dyspepsia in its various forms, Wakefulness, General Debility and Depression of Spirits. Manufactured only by Caswell, Hazard & Co., New York. Sold by all druggists. s

Saturday, May 1st.—The closing day of the great auction sale of Macrum & Carlisle's stock, at 29 Fifth avenue. We will offer hesiery, notions, embroideries, &c., in "job lots," and dealers will do well to attend this sale at 9½ A. M., and 2 and 7 P. M. In connection with the above, we will offer the entire stock of a dry goods store, being an assignees sale. Great bargains will be the order of the day. H. B. SMITHSON & Co.

Holtzheimer, the gentlemanly proprietor of the Continental Dining Rooms, serves his patrons at all times with the earliest and freshest vegetables, and the first game in season that can be obtained in the market, and everything in his establishment is served in a style to challenge competition. The Continental is one door west of the Postoffice, on Fifth avenue.

Unabated.—The excitement among the ladies in consequence of the immense stock of trimmings and lace goods, hosiery and gloves, at W. W. Moorhead's, No. 81 Market street, has not abated in the least, and we presume will not as long as Mr. M. continues to receive such elegant goods and sell them so rapidly as he is now doing.

Moorehead's, No. 81 Market street, is the place to purchase lace goods and trimmings, if you want the latest styles and a good article at reasonable prices. Moorehead purchases his goods from first hands, and is thereby enabled to sell on more reasonable terms than those who patronize the jobbing houses.

The Continental Dining Saloon, Fifth Avenue, next door to the Post office, is Mr. Holtzheimer's dining saloon and a more comfortable and better appointed establishment at which to dine cannot be found in the city.

Deliciously Medicinal.—This is the universal verdict pronounced upon PLANTATION BITTERS by all who have tried them. The well-known health-promoting ingredients from which they are made, and their invaluable merits as a remedy for indigestion and all its consequent ailments, and the preventive qualities against diseases arising from climatic changes, miasmatic influences and imperfect secretions, are so widely known and so honorably endorsed, that we trust no one will forego the advantages of their use.

MAGNOLIA WATER.—Superior to the best imported German Cologne, and sold at half the price. TH.S.T.F.

W. W. Moorhead, 81 Market street, would invite the attention of all his customers and the public, to the closing out at private sale all the goods yet remaining unsold. Great bargains can be secured next week in Embroideries, Laces and fancy goods. 6
